DR. LEVY POINTS THE WAY TO NEW LAND OF PROMISE FOR THE RUSSIAN HEBREWS

Pittsburgh Rabbi Lays Plans for a Buffer State Before the Highest Government Officials of Japan.

PROJECT IS WELL RECEIVED

President of the Local Peace Society Is Encouraged by the Mikado's Ministers to Believe That His Hope for a Home in Manchuria for His Distressed Race May Soon Be Realized.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—After half encircling the globe as a lone pilgrim, carrying the prayer of multitudes of his race, whose cries for mercy from out of darkest Russia stimulated him to action, the Rev. J. Leonard Levy of Pittsburgh, arrived here last night from Japan with the assurance that his efforts had not been in vain.

Leaving wife, children, friends and comrades, he turned his face to the east last June, with one fundamental purpose—to do as was done in ancient Israel—to plead for the emancipation of his brethren in Russia, whose blood has stained that land for evermore—to bring his message to the statesmen of Japan in their hour of triumph and plead their aid.

He came, he appealed, he was heard, and best of all, he was considered.

The mission was undertaken silently. It was deemed too serious for the flaring of public trumpets before its accomplishment. It was mission free from selfishness and for the personal benefit of no man, but for a race.

Bearing a letter of introduction from K. Takahira, the Japanese minister in Washington, Dr. Levy presented himself to one of the highest officials in Japanese government on Tuesday, July 25. Characteristic of Japanese mysteriousness, the prominent and government leading diplomats who figured in the conference that followed cannot be named at this time. In accord with wishes expressed by them.

Upon this first visit the conversation was interrupted almost when begun by a message which requested the officials to go at once to the Shinbashi railroad station and meet Alice Roosevelt and Secretary Taft and party who were to arrive in Yokohama that morning. The appointment was then postponed until Saturday morning, July 29.

At this time, the Japanese officials were urgently summoned to the palace to consider a report which had reached Tokyo that the Russian peace envoy, M. Witte, had refused to sail for the United States to take up and consider a peace treaty.

Finally Had a Conference.

Later in the day an appointment was made to meet Dr. Levy in the official residence of the minister of foreign affairs on Sunday morning. Here the opportunity was presented that afforded undisturbed consideration by the leading political brains of Japan of the proposition in behalf of which nearly 20,000 miles were traveled, three months were spent and all expenses personally sustained. What followed at this conference is best told in the words of Dr. Levy himself:

"I do not care to mention the names of those with whom I discussed the proposition which I believe will prove of greatest benefit to untold members of my persecuted brethern. The Japanese have taught me to use a great deal more discretion than I have ever used before. In brief my propositions were three in number.

"The first was that the victorious Japanese should use their influence with the Chinese government in having Manchuria opened up under special terms and advantages to such of my brethern of Russian blood who would be able to support themselves with the opportunities so afforded. The land is fertile; almost virgin soil. It is rich in minerals which have scarcely been sought. It now accommodates 7,250,000 people, but could comfortably accommodate five times that number.

He Awakened Interest.

"Religious problems were to play no part, but I sought this to secure a happy refuge where my persecuted and outraged Russian brethern might be enabled to become self-respecting, self-supporting and generally useful to themselves and mankind.

"At the beginning of my unfolding of this plan my audience was more or less apathetic, but as the possibilities of a buffer state became clear to the political vision of my hearers, the profoundest interest was awakened."

Dr. Levy explained with what impressiveness he was viewed by the men whose characteristics are that their thoughts shall not be reflected upon their faces. When the buffer state idea was unfolded there was an instant jumping up and resitting, this time upon the legs, in tailor-like fashion. Continuing, Dr. Levy stated:

"My answer was that Manchuria, of course, belongs to China. I was told that it was the avowed intention of Japan even at that time, before peace was declared, to return Manchuria to China, a condition which has been met. However, this promise was made, that at the earliest possible opportunity after war had ended and peace was declared the matter would be brought first unofficially to the attention of the leading men in China in the hope that Chinese government would be finally moved to grant such a petition.

"I was personally assured that my proposition met with the hearty approval of many important men in the upper strata of the Japanese diplomatic

BUSINESS MEN MORE POPULAR WITH JAPANESE

Dr. Levy's Letter from Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce Brings Results.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The Pittsburgh chamber of commerce is of more import in the eyes of the chamber of commerce of Tokyo, Japan, than it can possibly conceive.

Desirous of the assistance of the secretary of the Tokyo board of trade in securing data and statistics bearing on labor conditions and industries of the land, the Rev. J. Leonard Levy, during his visit in that city, presented the secretary with a letter of introduction from Gov. Pennypacker of Pennsylvania, which teemed with good recommendations. The Japanese carefully read it, said it was real nice, but offered no aid. A letter from Mayor Hays of Pittsburgh was then shown, but to no avail. A letter from the Japanese minister, Takahira, was conceded by the Japanese to be very complimentary to Dr. Levy, but when the latter produced a letter of recommendation from the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, his eyes sparkled:

"What," he exclaimed, "you a clergyman and a member of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce; truly, you must be a man entitled to respect," and every convenience was at once offered, with a request that Dr. Levy address the Tokyo chamber of commerce upon his next visit.

Federation of Labor Is Against Coolie Immigration from All Asiatic Countries.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—A very radical position will be taken by the American Federation of Labor on the Mongolian labor question at its convention which will be held at Pittsburgh, beginning November 13. President Gompers said today in outlining the policy of the approaching convention that the federation will not only oppose the admission of Chinese, but also Japanese and Korean labor.

A resolution will also be introduced which will advocate an educational test for all European immigration.

PEACE ENVOYS OF JAPAN IN GREAT DANGER

Dr. Levy Thinks the Plenipotentiaries' Lives Will be in Peril at Home.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—That the lives of the Japanese envoys to the Portsmouth peace conference will be in peril because of the revengeful feeling of fanatics when they again reach Japan, is the firm belief of the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, who witnessed one of the uprisings in Yokohoma on August 31.

"There can be no question," said he, "but that a wave of disappointment passed over Japan when news was received that the only money payment received was $150,000,000 to defray the expenses of keeping Russian prisoners.

"This amount does seem petty when it is remembered that there were tens of thousands of prisoners who were being fed by the best diet that Japan affords. The price of chickens, beef and eggs rose over 100 per cent during the past few months because of these supplies being fed to the prisoners of war. They were quartered in temples and treated with a courtesy that was remarkable and to which they were unaccustomed.

"On the night of August 31, when everything was externally quiet on the streets of Yokohoma, an anti-peace demonstration brought forth in which the most rebellious spirit was shown and one that is entirely foreign to Japanese characteristics. Resolutions were drawn up condemning the peace envoys and the government. Men were gesticulating wildly and cries resounded through the streets. Of course I was not fully enough acquainted with the language to grasp its meaning, but I was informed that loud and open threats were being made and that Baron Komura and Minister Takahira were being accused of selling their country."

RECORDS LAST THOUGHTS.

Dying Physician Makes Entries in His Diary, Realizing the Fact He Was About to Die.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—The last thoughts of a dying man are recorded in the diary of Dr. O. Brockerman of Quincy, who died on a train while coming home from Plainfield, Kan. The broken sentences and expressions of pain plainly indicate that the physician knew the heart attack which had seized him was the last.

The entry reads: "On train homeward bound to see my wife and boy. My poor old back. My head—all kinds of pains. Cold and hot. Three hours more and I will be home. I am sick—sick—sick. My wife; my boy. Time—all things must come to an end. Dear family—all is well."

ROCKEFELLER RAISES PRICE

Interview Paves the Way for Advance in the Oil Market.

FOR REFINED FLUID

Standard Company Increases the Quotations One-Half Cent a Gallon.

TENDENCY HAS BEEN UPWARD

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.

Following the "prosperity interview" of John D. Rockefeller, in which he said he could see no reason for hard times in the immediate future, the Standard Oil Company today advanced the price of oil, the selling prices for kerosene and for refined oils generally being raised. All grades of refined were put up one half cent a gallon and gasoline was advanced one cent a gallon.

The tendency of petroleum has been steadily upward lately. The rise of refined has naturally followed other prices for the crude product. Last week the price of the crude article was twice raised by the Standard Oil Company. Kansas oil was excepted from the advances, on the ground that the price of oil in that territory had been relatively higher than the Pennsylvania and Ohio product. The refined petroleum for export was also advanced sharply last week. Officers of the Standard Oil Company assert that the advances are warranted by the increased demand for oil, particularly from abroad.

The Japanese-Russian war, they say, interfered with the production of the Russian field and more recently the Russian production has suffered another blow through the uprising in the Baku district and in the destruction wrought at many wells. The demand for American oil has naturally increased heavily. The world wants oil and will buy at even higher prices.

Besides the interference with the Russian production, another reason for the advance in oil prices is the heavy falling off in the eastern petroleum fields of the United States in recent months, with a resulting great reduction of stocks above ground. The production has fallen far below consumption and there has been a steady drain on the stock.

Last month the stock of Pennsylvania oil above ground was reduced fully 500,000 barrels, and a still greater reduction is indicated for this month. Reductions, in fact, have been taking place straight along since about the first of the year. They have amounted, from January 1 to the close of August, to nearly 2,500,000 barrels, reducing the net stock to less than 19,000,000.

The quotations on the various grades of refined oil and gasoline are now as follows: Ohio state test oil, 9½ cents a gallon; water white Ohio state test oil, 9½; headlight 175 degree oil, 10½; Eocene oil, 11½; Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania naphtha, 11; deodorized stove gasoline, 12; 74 degree to 76 degree gasoline, 14.

LITTLE WOMAN DISCONSOLATE

She Gets First Prize, but Loses Money on Her Height—Now Wishes She Were a Six-Footer.

SCRANTON, Sept. 18.—Miss Susan E. Dickinson, a newspaper writer, is for the nonce disconsolate because she is only four feet three inches in height. Today she received word from a magazine that Admiral Dewey and Senator Allison, acting as judges in a literary contest inaugurated by the magazine, had awarded her first prize.

The occasion of her being disconsolate is that the first prize is a stack of silver dollars equal to her height.

DOG PLAYS FIREMAN AND SAVES BUILDING

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—The large general store of the Woodrow Supply Company at Woodrow, this county, was saved from burning last night by a dog, which warned the manager, R. S. Flannegan, who reached the scene in time to save the building. In the early morning Flannegan was aroused by a frantic barking and scratching at his bedroom door, which adjoined the storeroom. He got up and found the center of the store in flames. He gave the alarm and with the assistance of neighbors soon had the fire under control.

LOSES IN LOVE; TAKES HIS LIFE

George Atwood Commits Suicide Because Young Woman Breaks Engagement.

DIES ON RIVER COAL FLOAT

The breaking of an engagement to marry him by a Chicago young woman, because of his drinking, led George C. Atwood, a well-known Chicago traveling salesman, to take his life yesterday at noon on the J. D. Budd coal float in the Monongahela river under the Wabash railroad bridge. Atwood committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart.

Atwood was stopping at the Hotel Anderson. About 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning he walked to the coal float and asked J. Ammon, who was in charge, for a drink of water. Ammon, noticing that Atwood was well dressed, invited him into the cabin and gave him the water. Ammon left the cabin and returned about 12:15 p. m. He smelled powder smoke as he entered the cabin and found Atwood dead, with a revolver by his side.

Manager H. Bean of the Hotel Anderson said he had known Atwood for several years. The dead man was prominent in Masonic circles.

Atwood's brother in Chicago was notified by Coroner Armstrong and an arrangement was made with the officers of the Melon bank here to take charge of the remains and have them shipped to Chicago this morning.

Atwood was well-known in Chicago and throughout Illinois, where he was well connected. He was born in Taylorsville, Ill., 31 years ago. His mother and a sister, who is a banker's wife, reside in Taylorsville. His brother Fred is paying teller of the First National bank of Chicago. George traveled as salesman for the Chicago Straw Company and had remarkable business ability, but his habits interfered with his success. He lived in Woodlawn, a suburb of Chicago, and was engaged to an estimable young woman, who was compelled to break the engagement because of his habits. After the breaking of the engagement Atwood threatened several times to kill himself.

Senator Platt Is Improving.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—For the first time since his arrival last Saturday, Senator Thomas C. Piat of New York was able to take a drive this morning. Senator Platt said today he was feeling stronger, though he has not yet shown that the California climate is bringing any strength to his halting steps.

RACE SUICIDE ARGUMENT MAY BE CARRIED TOO FAR

Increasing Large Families of the Irresponsible Poor to Be Basis of Letter to Mrs. Roosevelt. Woman Wants a Medal.

Pittsburgh philanthropic women take exceptions to President Roosevelt's race suicide theory. Mrs. S. E. Lippincott, superintendent and secretary of the Society for the Improvement of the Poor, after consultation with other members of the society, has about decided to write to Mrs. Roosevelt, asking her to persuade the president to modify his position. The letter will be a protest against large families of the irresponsible poor.

This determination became crystalized yesterday, when a woman who had been deserted by her husband after ten years, applied for aid. She is the mother of 17 children, seven of whom are dead "and helps." Another is in the Institution for the Feeble-Minded at Polk, Pa. Although reduced to extreme poverty by the desertion of her husband, the woman wants to apply to the president for a medal as an example of his ideal wife and mother. Mrs. Lippincott and yesterday.

"What with the wretchedness and distress of these big families raised by the shiftless poor, the equally large families brought by immigrants to this country, and the menace they are to our nation and to society, I am considering writing to Mrs. Roosevelt an appeal in her womanhood against this indiscriminate applauding of unwelcom[illegible]."

TRIES TO FIX HIS FENCES

Muehlbronner's Friends Want to Change Complexion of Committee.

HENDERSON IS BUSY

Attempts to Persuade Opposition Committeeman to Resign His Seat in the Body.

SCHEME IS NOT A SUCCESS

Effort is being made to repair the gaps in the Muehlbronner mayoralty fences caused by the Republican primaries of Saturday. The repair work has been placed in the hands of John H. Henderson.

From developments yesterday it is evident that Henderson will try to secure the resignation of as many city committeemen as possible in districts which returned majorities for John A. Fairman for recorder. The plan is to have men friendly to Muehlbronner and Henderson appointed to fill the vacancies.

The Seventh district of the Second ward returned a majority of 11 for Fairman. Oscar Daum is the committeeman in the district. When he went to county headquarters yesterday to receive the pay for the election board he was told by Secretary Muehlbronner he would not be paid, as the return was not made in regular form, the ballots not having been placed in the envelopes.

Daum Would Not Resign.

Daum says he went to see Henderson about the matter. During the conference Henderson tried to secure the resignation of Daum as a member of the city committee. Henderson had the resignation prepared and asked Daum to sign it. This the committeeman refused to do.

This same scheme is no doubt being worked or will be attempted in every district where Henderson or the men associated with him think they can secure a resignation. Under the Allegheny rules all vacancies are filled by a majority vote of the executive board of the city committee. Henderson is chairman of the executive board. There are 17 members of this body and the Henderson faction claims it is in control.

Muehlbronner says the returns from the Seventh district of the Second ward show that Fairman received 115 votes and says Henderson claims the vote should have been 112 for Cochrane.

Wyman Forces at Work.

According to Daum, effort was made to carry the district for Cochrane. Eighteen city hall employes were working in the precinct all day and Congressman W. H. Graham and Henderson paid visits. When the board was counting the vote Daum says Henderson appeared and claimed he had been authorized by City Chairman F. J. Torrance to oversee the count. He was put out. The count showed this result: Lowry, 1; Cochrane, 60, and Fairman, 71. Duplicate returns were made to Allegheny city Republican headquarters and to the county headquarters. The return was received at Allegheny headquarters by T. F. Trimble. Daum says the board members did not understand the ballots were to be sent to the county returning board and all of the tickets were destroyed.

ONE MAN IS KILLED; TWO HURT IN SMASHUP

West Penn Engine Jumps Track at Fifteenth Street Crossing In Sharpsburg.

While running through Sharpsburg at 10:30 o'clock last night a freight engine jumped the track at the Fifteenth street crossing of the West Penn railroad. In the smashup one man was killed and two were seriously injured. Following are the killed and injured:

KILLED.

ISAAC HELMAN, engineer, killed instantly.

INJURED.

WILBUR J. CUMMINGS, fireman, aged 23, single, lives at 136 Lowrie street, Troy Hill, Allegheny; cut and bruised about head and body; taken to Allegheny General hospital. His condition is serious.

G. G. KLINE, brakeman, 30 years old and married, of 837 Main street, Allegheny; injured about feet; taken to Allegheny General hospital.

It is not known what caused the engine to leave the track. Engineer Helman was running at a moderate rate of speed when the engine jumped, giving him no time to escape the crash. Kline and Cummings were riding in the engine and were thrown some distance when it toppled. Engineer Helman was caught under the great weight and crushed horribly. Kline was able to be taken to his home after having his injuries dressed. The railroad officials took charge of the remains of Helman.

FIFTY PERSONS INJURED.

RAMSEY HOPES HE WILL WIN

Says He is Not Backed by Any Interests Inimical to the Wabash.

DECLINES TO DISCUSS GOULD

[By Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Sept. 18.

President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., of the Wabash Railroad Company, who has started a fight for re-election against George Gould, was at his desk in the Wabash offices today, quite hopeful of winning.

"I want to say," said Mr. Ramsey, "that I am not backed by any array of strong interests that are inimical to the Wabash and to Wabash stockholders. I am not in this fight backed by anybody but Wabash stockholders.

"Of course, I hope to win, but there is nothing certain in this world. However, I would not have considered it right to start a contest like this, involving an important property, if I had not thought there was a good chance of being successful.

"I would rather not discuss the Gould financing of the Wabash. I don't want to go into personalities, and when you discuss a man's finances you sometimes go into personalities."

Mr. Ramsey was asked about the report of the disposition of the Little Kanawha properties, of the syndicate controlling which he is in charge, and all that he would say was that the properties had not actually passed, and he would not say whether there had yet been an agreement to sell.

Can Do Without Kanawha.

He was asked if he was not holding out in the sale as an inducement for his election, the Little Kanawha properties being of great value to the Wabash.

Mr. Ramsey did not answer the question directly, but said that he would not do anything dishonorable about the disposition of the Kanawha properties; if he had agreed to sell them he would not back out, or hold up the agreement pending his election.

Asked what Wabash would do without the Little Kanawha, he replied:

"This is a broad country and a railroad doesn't require so much room, so the Wabash is not confined to one route. It might be a better and less expensive route, but another could undoubtedly be got. You know it was said the Wabash could never get into Pittsburgh, but she got in all right. And I guess she can get out, too."

Street Is Still at Sea.

Interest in the Wabash fight continued today in the financial district, especially in railway circles. It is known that the Gould directors now own or control 40 per cent of the voting Wabash securities. It is also known from the company's books that the Rockefeller or Pennsylvania interests do not hold directly any of the income bonds or stock. It was pointed out, however, that Wall street was still at sea regarding details of the election early in 1905 of William Rockefeller, H. H. Rogers and H. C. Frick to the Atchison board.

In railway circles, where President Ramsey is well known, confidence was expressed today in his ability to have correctly judged the situation before asking for proxies. One official with unusual sources of information ventured the opinion that the controversy would end in a reconciliation between President Ramsey and George J. Gould, chairman of the board.

George Gould declined to say anything about the struggle for control of the Wabash. "The kindest thing I can do," said he, "is to say nothing at all about this affair."

Cold Reception for Ramsey.

Consternation ensued in the Wabash offices today when Mr. Ramsey calmly took possession of his desk to resume his duties as president of the railroad. Officials of the road did not expect Mr. Ramsey would ever enter the building again after he appealed to the stockholders for their proxies to dispute control of the railroad with George J. Gould at the annual meeting in Toledo on October 10.

While several minor officers greeted Mr. Ramsey on his entrance, his reception was chilly. His presence was ignored by Edgar T. Welles, vice president, whose desk nearly adjoins that of Mr. Ramsey, and by other chief officials.

George J. Gould returned today from his summer home in the Catskills. His office communicates with that of Mr. Ramsey, but when he was informed of the latter's reappearance his quarters were locked and he hastily installed himself on the floor below with his secretary, stenographers and clerks.

TIDE OF GOLD IS TURNED WESTWARD

French Bankers Interested in Shipments of Vast Sums to New York.

HAS BEEN GOING OTHER WAY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PARIS, Sept. 18.—The turn of the tide of gold towards New York is exciting the attention of bankers and other financiers, who say that this restores the natural movement which has been abnormally reversed for the last two years, partly owing to the war in the far east.

Officials of the Bank of France today stated that the shipments to the United States were the resumption of the usual conditions at this time of year. The bank itself had not made shipments, but the officials referred to the shipments made by Lazard Freres & Co. as indicating the general tendency. However, the bank did not regard the movement as likely to make serious inroads into the French stock of gold owing to an unusually large gold balance in the Bank of France.

Similar views were expressed by two leading financial economists, Raphael Georges Levy, president of the South African mines bank, and Stanislas Simon, head of the Indo-Chinese bank. They considered it to be practically certain that the Bank of France will not advance the rate of discount because of the American demand for gold. The bank had been gaining gold rapidly of late and now had about $600,000,000. Since the conclusion of peace, they said, without any provision for an indemnity, the pressure for money had relaxed. In Paris preparations had been made prior to the conclusion of peace to aid Russia in floating a large loan for the payment of an indemnity. The latter was generally expected in banking circles and led to the accumulation of much gold. This would not now be required under existing conditions. It was thought that Russia would borrow considerable money, but there would be no immediate demand for a large amount. Under these circumstances it was pointed out the surplus stock of gold in the Bank of France could be considerably reduced without causing anxiety here.

Michel Lazard, of Lazard, Freres & Co., said the firm had just shipped to New York $1,750,000 in gold. The previous shipment was $1,600,000. The cause of this was the gradual reduction of the rate of exchange to $4.85.45 cents, which gave a slight profit on the shipping of gold to New York. However, M. Lazard remarked this was an entirely natural current of gold to New York, owing to the balance resulting from the exports of grain, cotton and other crops. These natural conditions had been reversed for the last two years. The gold moving from New York to Europe was owing to special causes, including the French sale of the Panama canal and the war, but these special conditions no longer existed. M. Lazard said he believed that the tide had turned toward New York and would remain in that direction.

TROUBLE ON THE WABASH.

Highest Officers of the Railroad Will Confer With the Heads of the Train Men's Organizations.

Conferences between the Wabash railway officers and the road operating men of the Pittsburgh end of the system may assume more important form than has been anticipated. The roadmen will be represented by the four heads of the organizations of railroad operating men, while it was said last night that the Wabash will be represented by the highest officers of the company, as well as by the officers in charge of the operations of the lines east of Toledo.

It is on these lines that the trouble exists, the Pittsburgh men refusing to remove to Columbia, near Mansfield, as headquarters, and thus give seniority to the Wheeling & Lake Erie operating men. The conference will be held at the Seventh Avenue hotel.

JUDGES ARE NOTIFIED.

Attorney R. H. Jackson Delivered Copy of the Mandamus on Each Member of Judiciary.

The papers in the mandamus proceedings against the local common pleas judges to compel them to show cause why they should not appoint a board for the assessment and revision of taxes, were received by Prothonotary George Pearson yesterday.

Attorney R. H. Jackson later in the day served each of the judges personally, out of courtesy to them. They had nothing to say individually in the matter, but it is expected they will hold a meeting later in the week and select an attorney to represent them in filing an answer and arguing the question from their standpoint. Attorney C. C. Dickey, who first raised the question of the constitutionality of the act and notified the judges as to its status, will probably represent the judiciary in the matter, although he absolutely refused to discuss the matter yesterday and knew nothing as to what action the judges would take.

The S. ODD FELLOWS IN SOVEREIGN LODGE

Grand Body Opens Its Deliberations in Philadelphia With Many Present.

CITY IS GAILY DECORATED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 18.—Under weather conditions that were somewhat disappointing the annual convocation of the sovereign lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was formally opened here today. There is an unusually large attendance of delegates and visitors, and the adverse weather conditions did not in the least dampen their ardor. The central part of the city is decorated in honor of the order and city hall is handsomely illuminated with incandescent electric lights.

The delegates and members put in a busy day. The formal opening of the conclave took place in the forenoon when public exercises were held in Lu Lu Temple, at which Mayor Weaver welcomed the visitors to the city. Later the sovereign lodge held a session at which the reports of officers were read. The reports show that the order had a most prosperous year.

The remainder of the day was taken up in prize drills by the military branch of the order, exemplification of degree work by visiting lodges and receptions to prominent members of the organization.

After the public ceremonies the sovereign lodge went into secret session at the Odd Fellows Temple, Grand Sire Wright presiding. In the absence of Grand Chaplain the Rev. J. W. Venable of Kentucky, whose advanced age prevented his attendance, the opening invocation was delivered by Grand Chaplain pro tem F. L. Jewett, a member of Excelsior lodge No. 43, of this city.

Annual reports of the grand sire, Grand Secretary John B. Goodwin, Grand Treasurer M. Richards Mickle and Gen. M. A. Raney, commanding the Patriarchs Militant, were the features of the session. After being presented they were referred to the committe on distribution of grand officers' reports.

The statistical information for the year in the report of Grand Secretary John B. Goodwin included the following: 134,210 candidates initiated, 54,235 members suspended and 13,035 died. Since 1830 the order has initiated 2,927,283 candidates; 292,541 members have died.

The report upon the various homes for the care of its orphans and aged brethren shows 38 institutions, seven of them in Pennsylvania.

The consideration of cases of appeal on various questions of law coming up from grand jurisdictions consumed a part of the session and will again claim the attention of representatives when they convene tomorrow.

A resolution introduced by Claude Buckley of Kentucky provided for a change in the operation of the grand council of Patriarchs Militant, by which that body in future will be permitted to legislate directly in its own interests, subject to the approval of the sovereign grand lodge. If the resolution, which will come up later in the week, is passed it will make the grand secretary, John B. Goodwin, now adjutant general of the Patriarchs Militant, simply ex-officio holder of that position.

The questions of forbidding the admission of retail dealers in liquors to membership and affiliation with the Manchester Unity, of England and Canada, will probably not receive the consideration of the representatives until Thursday.

Exemplification of the Patriarchs Militant degree work took place tonight at the Second regiment armory, after which receptions were tendered at the Odd Fellows' temple to Gen. M. A. Raney, commander of the Patriarchs Militant, and Major Gen. J. Blair Andrews, department commander of Pennsylvania.

IS THIS THE MAFIA?

Two Strange Men Murderously Assault Allegheny Foreigner in His Home. Wife is Present.

While sitting in his home in Orchard lane, Allegheny, last night talking with his wife, Mike Gargovitch, a Slav, was struck over the head with a chair and rendered unconscious. The assault was made by two strange men who entered the rear door of the house and without a word pitched upon Gargovitch, whose skull is fractured. The screams of his wife brought neighbors. The two strangers fled.

The police at No. 3 patrol station took Gargovitch to St. John's General hospital where it was said late last night he was in a very serious condition. Mrs. Gargovitch says she never saw either of the men before and knows of no enemies her husband has.

Coroner Commits "Bud" Williams.

Mrs. Goldie Williams, who had been detained at Central police station, pending an investigation of the murder of her mother by her husband, "Bud" Williams, on Saturday night, was released yesterday after being questioned by the coroner. Williams was turned over to the coroner yesterday, who committed him to jail pending the result of the inquest. Charles Quincey, who was also shot by Williams, is still confined at the Mercy hospital from his injuries. The physicians say he will probably recover.

SCHOOL GIRL'S FATHER ARMED WITH SHOTGUN

Stranger Had Accosted Female Pupils and Parent is Determined to Capture Him.

The sight of a prominent citizen of Swissvale, armed with a shotgun, escorting his two daughters to the public school yesterday was one of the sights that caused people to stare. The father, however, chatted with the girls, carrying his weapon nonchalantly. His eye roved as if seeking somebody. When it was known that the father had the gun in order to catch the fellow who has been accosting school girls, his course was approved by many, as it was understood that he intended to use the gun only in case the fellow tried to escape.

For some days the girl pupils of the schools in the borough have complained that a stranger had been accosting them. He was seen yesterday near the Dennison school, and one of the girls pointed him out to a teacher. The police have a good description of him.

Burgess J. M. Lynn has offered a reward of $25 for the man's arrest and conviction and the school board has offered a like sum.

CALL STEUBENVILLE MINISTER

The Rev. Samuel L. Boston Is Selected Pastor of Park Avenue Presbyterian Church.

At a congregational meeting held last night in the Park Avenue Presbyterian church the congregation unanimously voted to extend a call to the Rev. Samuel L. Boston, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church of Steubenville, O. The meeting was called by order of a committee appointed to secure a minister. J. McF. Carpenter, chairman of the committee, reported that the Rev. Mr. Boston, who had preached to the congregation last Sunday at both morning and evening services, and who was the only minister considered by the congregation, had met with the unanimous approval of the committee.

The moderator of the meeting was the Rev. George W. Chalfant, who has been filling the pulpit since the resignation of the former pastor, the Rev. Henry B. Hummell, who resigned six months ago on account of ill health.

COAL ADVANCES.

Run of Mine Quoted at $1 10 a Ton at Mine, a Five-Cent Raise.

With the car supply becoming shorter and the demand for coal heavier, the inevitable advance in prices has begun to make itself felt all over the country. Pittsburgh has been one of the last points to feel this, but the quotations went up 5 cents a ton yesterday. Under the new quotations run of mine is placed at $1 10 at the mine. Three-quarter inch is quoted at $1 20 and 1¼ at $1 30 a ton.

The railroad managers claim that they hope to get through the fall and winter without a car shortage of a serious character, although they admit being between 10 and 20 per cent short now of the equipment asked.

Grand Fraternity Gives Entertainment.

A well attended entertainment was given in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, last night, by the Grand Fraternity. The program consisted of musical entertainment, a violin solo by Dr. Louis Harris, vocal solo by Miss Frances Casey, selections by the National quartet and the American orchestra, and a sleight of hand and magic exhibition by Vasco. The Hon. Lee N. Squier of Philadelphia, vice president of the organization, made an address explaining the principles of the society. It is a fraternal insurance organization. The headquarters are in Philadelphia.

Pleads Guilty to Manslaughter.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—Louie Henry, aged 17, today entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter. He was charged with an assault on James Travers, an old scissors grinder, near Star Junction in July. Travers died later.

GRANT MOTHER'S DYING REQUEST

Mrs. Fisher, Fatally Burned, Is Removed from Hospital to Daughter's Home to Die.

VICTIM OF AN EXPLOSION

With death but a few hours away at most, Mrs. Emma Fisher, aged 50, last evening pleaded that she be removed from St. Joseph hospital to the home of her daughter to die. Her children, who were weeping about her bed, decided that their mother's last request would be granted. At 6 o'clock she was taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emelia Murphy, No. 2310 Sidney street. She died two hours later.

Mrs. Fisher's death was due to burns received during the afternoon at her home, No. 1824 Merriman street. She was baking bread in a gasoline baker, which exploded and ignited her clothing. The woman ran screaming from the house. Her son, James Fisher, was in an upstairs room and looked from the window to see his mother with flames all about her. Mrs. Fisher ran down an alley and into the home of a neighbor, where she sank to the floor. At the hospital it was discovered that she was burned about the face, head and body, and that her death was certain.

While sitting in her back yard cooling off after working about the house, Mrs. Florence Schmeich, aged 45, dropped from her chair and died almost instantly. Mrs. Schmeich lived at No. 1072 River avenue, Allegheny, and belonged to one of the best-known families in the Eighth ward. She was the mother of Mrs. Theresa Darling, who on August 1 last was shot three times by her husband, Daniel Darling, who was convicted last week of felonious shooting. Mrs. Darling entirely recovered from her wounds and although her mother almost met death at the same time, she never appeared to suffer any ill effects. Mrs. Schmeich had been washing and went into the yard to rest shortly after 4 o'clock. A few minutes after she sat down she fell from her chair. Dr. Charles Bouscek was called but said the woman died almost instantly. Mrs. Schmeich is survived by her husband and seven children.

Death checked the flight of Robert Joyce, an inmate of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital for Insane at Dixmont, who escaped from that institution Sunday night. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning his body was found lying on the tracks of the Ft. Wayne railroad at Economy. Joyce escaped from the institution with Thomas Booth, another inmate. Joyce was sent to Dixmont from Lawrence county. Booth was committed from Washington county. Neither were considered dangerous patients. Booth has not yet been captured.

Mary Brown, aged 8, died at the West Penn hospital at 8 o'clock yesterday morning from injuries received by being run over by a train on the Allegheny Valley railroad at Parnassus station a few hours before.

The coroner was notified last night of the death at the workhouse yesterday of Louis Smolski, due, it was said, to alcoholism.

OPPOSE AGREEMENT TERMS.

Certain Set In Norway Places Difficulty in the Way of the Delegates.

KARLSTAD, SWEDEN, Sept. 18.—The Norwegian and Swedish delegates were in conference for two hours and a half today and adjourned to meet when an agreement is reached on certain points submitted to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Lundeberg, Michelsen, Hammersjold and Loveland. A certain element in Norway is opposing the proposed terms of agreement, thus placing difficulty in the way of the delegates.

It is understood that as a basis of the agreement Sweden has promised to sign an arbitration treaty as soon as Norway is recognized as a separate state, while Norway agrees to destroy all the new frontier fortifications. The other conditions are still under consideration.

LOCAL FINGERS TO TOUCH GREAT PIPE ORGAN KEYS

Players from All Over the Country to Preside at the Recitals in the Absence of a Regular Performer.

Local talent will figure largely in the Carnegie hall organ recitals this winter. It will be over six months before the committee of the Art Society of Pittsburgh will take up the matter of securing a successor to Edwin H. Lemare, the former organist, and until that time the committee will secure "supplies" for the place, after the manner of a church which is left pastorless.

This announcement is "unofficial," but was received from an authoritative source. The orchestra committee will not be ready to apprise the public of its plans until late in the winter. In the meantime, it will look about for an organist and will probably investigate scores of applications for the position. These applications have been on file with the chairman of the committee since the publication of Mr. Lemare's resignation. They have come from all parts of this country and from Europe.

The contractors who are working upon the institute have given the assurance that the music hall will be ready for opening on Founder's day, November 2, and all the plans of the board of trustees and the orchestra committee have been made with all expectations of having the big hall open.

The organ recitals, which have been a feature of the fall attractions of the Carnegie Institute, will be begun as usual on the Saturday night following Founder's day. Plans have been made for continuing the recitals on the regular dates thereafter. Music lovers will be given an opportunity to hear the best organists of the United States. The opportunity to play the great organ in Pittsburgh, to appear in the famous Carnegie hall and to have the privilege of entertaining Pittsburgh audiences, have proved an incentive to the best organists of America. There will be no difficulty in filling the dates. The best talent will be secured and among the noted players will be several who are celebrated organists in Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

MUST READJUST TARIFF SCHEME

Dr. Holland Tells Chamber of Commerce What He Learned While in Europe.

THE WORK OF REPUBLICANS

"America must change her treatment toward other countries in matters of trade or lose a great portion of her business, as the sentiment in Europe is that this country is too severe and has made it almost impossible for foreigners to do business with us," declared Dr. W. J. Holland, who has just returned home after a long absence abroad.

The question of reciprocal trade treatment was brought up at the first meeting of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, held yesterday, since the summer vacation began. A letter was received in June from the New York chamber of commerce asking the Pittsburgh chamber to co-operate in securing reciprocal trade treatment and bring the question to an issue before the reciprocal convention at Chicago. The matter was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

In discussing the letter Dr. Holland said that while he was in Europe he met many Englishmen who are bitterly opposed to the American tariff system. He said the former confidential secretary of Cecil Rhodes said America has built such a high tariff wall about the country that it is almost impossible for England to do business with this country, and all foreign countries can do is to trade as little as possible with America.

Will Develop Colonial Trade.

He stated the speaker said England is going to develop her colonial trade and secure her supplies from them.

Dr. Holland said that while he is a protectionist and comes from a district largely favorable to protection, he believes the time has come when this country must not be too greedy, and that there are many commodities for which too high prices are charged because of the tariff on them. While the United States sells great quantities of her products to European countries, this country almost shuts out foreign countries from importing their goods, and they have become tired of receiving such treatment.

Dr. Holland said that while abroad he talked to many men prominent in the affairs of the old world, and in England especially the statesmen believe that unless the United States is more reciprocal in her trade relations England will soon be turning the majority of her trade toward her colonies, which can, if encouraged, supply Europe with many of the products needed. Dr. Holland said thousands of Americans have settled in the northwestern part of Canada, where wheat can and is being grown as successfully as in the northwestern part of the United States.

Colonies Are Resourceful.

Australia and other colonial possessions of England are greatly adapted, he said, to produce other products which are now imported from the United States, and he declared it is his opinion that the time has come when this country must take action regarding its trade relations with the foreign countries. This country, with her great resources, has a splendid opportunity to greatly increase her exports to foreign countries, he said, but with a too high tariff those who need the natural and manufactured products of the United States will be turned away and look elsewhere for their supplies.

By changing the trade relations with foreign countries and making them less severe, Dr. Holland said, imports into this country will be encouraged and will increase and bring to the United States government a larger revenue. At present the revenues of the United States are largely from interior sources, and this is insufficient to run the government, as is being shown daily by the expenditures, which are greater than the income.

Dr. Holland said the scaling down will have to be done, and he would far rather have the matter taken up by a Republican congress and properly adjusted than to leave it for a Democratic congress.

The chamber of commerce also voted to extend an invitation to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to address the chamber of commerce during the convention of the federation, which will be held in Pittsburgh in November.

PHILADELPHIANS IN PANIC.

Cry of Fire at Theater Matinee Causes Wild Rush by Audience for Exits.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—(Special.)—Startled by the cry of "fire," the big audience which had gathered at Blaney's Arch Street theater this afternoon rose in a body and in a state of panic started for the exits of the theater. There were at least 1,500 persons in the audience and 90 per cent of them were women.

In an instant the audience, which had the moment before been listening intently, made a wild scramble for the numerous exits. Coats were tossed upon the floor, umbrellas were thrown into the air and the ripping of feminine apparel was heard in every portion of the packed house, as the frenzied women tore at each other in a wild endeavor to escape the fancied peril. No serious injuries resulted from the stampede.

The headquarters of the delegates in the Meredith building were filled tonight.

The convention will open tomorrow morning in Markell hall, with an address of welcome by Mayor H. T. Billick, to which State Councilor Lafean will respond. In the evening there will be an immense parade. The sessions will last all week. A carnival company, which brought its attractions here today is doing a big business.

Son of Senator Knox Assessed $12.50 for Speeding 7½ Automobile—Is Threatened With Court.

[By Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—(Special.)—"How much will the next fine be, Judge, if I run her that again?" asked Philander C. Knox, Jr., son of Senator Knox, when arraigned before Squire Gibson in Ardmore today, on a charge of speeding his automobile.

"Young chap," angrily retorted the 'squire, "the next time you come before me I'll send you to court."

This statement weakened the young man's independence, and he quickly paid a fine of $12.50. He was arrested last Friday in Montgomery avenue, Lower Merion township. Today he kept the court waiting two hours.

DR. LEVY OPENS NEGOTIATIONS FOR COLONIZING RUSSIAN JEWS IN MANCHURIA

OPPORTUNITY FOR AMERICAN PEACE PARTY

Societies from This Country Will Have First Position at The Hague.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—That the peace party in the United States now has unprecedented opoprtunity for accomplishing its aims and purposes is the earnest conviction of the Rev. Dr. Levy. When his attention was brought to the fact that a call had been issued for a second meeting of The Hague tribunal he was asked what the possibilities were.

"When I saw President Roosevelt last December," he began, "he assured me that as soon as Russia and Japan had reached a conclusion regarding their differences, he would forthwith call a meeting of The Hague tribunal. The president, on that occasion, was so kind as to enter into many details concerning the second Hague conference and even went as far as to tell me who he will name as chairman of the American representatives who will go to The Hague.

"I believe that much can be accomplished at the coming meeting of the tribunal. It will afford an opportunity for the peace party of America which should not be lost sight of. I am convinced that if American peace societies have any tagible proposition to submit; if they have any definite working plan to suggest to the president, he will use his powerful influence on behalf of the just cause to the end that many of the brutalities that now make war so horrible will be eliminated, and that war will not be resorted to so frequently nor for such paltry issues as heretofore.

"America today is more in a position to be seen and heard than she was at the time of the holding of the first Hague conference and if the peace societies of the land are prepared to act, an opportunity has been made by the president."

GARDEN PARTY TO AMERICANS A GRAND EVENT

Dr. Levy Describes the Reception to the Taft Visitors in Tokyo.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—"It was one of the most gorgeous events it has ever been my privilege to attend," declared the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, when asked today regarding the reception tendered Miss Alice Roosevelt and Secretary Taft and party on their arrival in Tokyo.

"On the evening of July 27," continued Dr. Levy, "a garden party was held on the beautiful grounds of the American legation with Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Griscom, the American minister and wife, introducing the distinguished guests from America. There were about 2,000 persons present, including, as the secretary of Baron Komura told me, 'the fighting brains of Japan.' All nationalities were represented, including as many Americans as were fortunate to receive invitations.

"It was my good fortune to be presented to Miss Roosevelt and the party, as were many others, and I found all the reports of her grace and kindly disposition to be unexaggerated. I was indeed proud that I was an American citizen, and never have been more so than since my return.

"During the entire stay of the Taft party in Tokyo, I saw as many American flags on display as appear in an American city on an American holiday. At the dinners in the Imperial hotel and Maple club there was a general public feeling of appreciation of American efforts toward bringing about the peace of justice.

"On the night when the party left Tokyo a procession of 30,000 persons bearing lighted Japanese lanterns marched to and gathered about the railroad station, cheering wildly and continually for 'Princess Alice,' as they called her. I cannot believe that there has been the slightest change in Japanese sentiment toward America, except on the part of irresponsible persons, since the occasion of the garden party in Tokyo."

DR. LEVY POINTS THE WAY

corps. I have reason to believe that if the plan commends itself to my brethern, that to some degree a solution of the Russian problem will be discovered."

Certain of Favorable Action.

Among the inducements which would appeal to the oppressed Jews of Russia in colonizing in Manchuria is that a far greater number could benefit than by the present endeavors to immigrate to points much further removed.

When asked if he had heard anything further regarding this first proposition, Dr. Levy said:

"No, I do not expect to hear anything for a time. Methods of diplomacy even in progressive countries are at best, slow, and in a land like China, they are likely to be much slower. I have perfect confidence in the good faith of the promises made me and I verily believe that a great power in Japanese government will yet communicate to me such a reply that I shall feel warranted in moving further in this matter."

"How was the buffer state idea received from a point of statecraft?" was asked.

"I scarcely know how to answer," said Dr. Levy. "I do not wish to give the impression that in my judgment the plan is very timely, but I am quoting a certain party in authority in Japan who said: 'A creation of a buffer state in Manchuria is a plan worthy of the highest statesmanship, well conceived and under proper guidance is one of the surest means of promoting and maintaining the world's peace in the far east.'"

"What was your second proposition?" was asked.

Liberty Compared With Russia.

"I realized that even if my most sanguine expectation regarding Manchuria was fulfilled the entire Russo-Jewish problem would not be solved. I also saw the possibility that the success of Manchurian colonization was in the womb of time and that years would pass before it could be shown that the removal of large numbers of Russian Jews from the congested areas in which persecution is rife to lands which are called heathen, but which in comparison to Russia are domains of liberty, would produce a desideration which I indulge. I therefore suggested that there was another key upon which to play, and that was the possibility of using the forthcoming peace conference in the United States as a means of inducing Russia to offer a more liberal policy toward the Jews."

Dr. Levy then explained that immediately this proposition was frowned down. That the argument was made that Japan had no warrant for intefering in the internal policy of Russia.

This argument was met by pointing out that if an indemnity of any character, direct or indirect, was to be paid to Japan, it would be necessary in some way or other to touch upon, even though remotely, the internal policy of Russia to secure payment. Even this argument was not fully convincing until Dr. Levy cited the case of the Berlin conference during which matters entirely extraneous were introduced into the treaty of peace through the adroit diplomacy of the earl of Beaconsfield.

Can Learn Religion from Japan.

"I cannot indulge in the belief," said Dr. Levy, "that even this precedent made a very deep impression, but the assurance was given me that if it were possible for 'Heathen Japan' to put in a word with 'Holy Russia' to use the slightest influence in the direction indicated it would be done.

"Let me here say that in the matter of religious liberty Russia has much to learn from Japan."

Though Dr. Levy would not discuss the result of this second plea as it seems to appear from subsequent events, it is significant that while the wires between Tokyo and Portsmouth were at their hottest with messages to and fro that the czar issued his postscript proclamation granting his people a constitution and recognizing a few elementary rights of the Jews. Following this came the assurance of Envoy Witte to representative Jews of America.

When asked if he had made any personal intervention for peace because of the fact that he was president of the Pittsburgh Peace society and was known to be largely interested in peace affairs, Dr. Levy answered:

Put in a Word for Peace.

"I could not allow the opportunity to pass by without putting in an earnest appeal in behalf of a realization of peace. I realized that the only point that would be seriously debated between the peace envoys would be the question of indemnity. I knew Japan needed money badly and I also felt that as practically no Russian territory had been conquered by Japan, and as Russia had no money to spare, that a money indemnity would be practically impossible to gain.

"I asked, therefore, that representation be made to the proper authorities that as Japan had gained everything for which she had fought, namely, Port Arthur, Liaoyang peninsula, the Chinese railway, evacuation of Manchuria, the predominating influence over Korea and control of the sea, that she could afford to be generous and accept such terms as would insure the integrity of China and such other important questions which had led to the war. I remarked that in all probability if the impending battle between the forces of Oyama and Linevitch were fought not less than 100,000 men would be sacrificed, this estimate being exceedingly conservative, if all I had heard about the destruction of human life in the battles during the last 18 months were but true in part.

A Significant Coincidence.

"Granting, said I, that you demand an indemnity of 5,000,000 yen, as you propose, and that this was rejected by Russia and peace negotiations broken off, the slaughter of 100,000 men for this money would be placing a value of $250 in American money on the life of each.

"I can't say what influence this argument had, but I do know that before I left Japan I heard the glad tidings that peace had been declared. And while I feel that the Japanese people have been temporarily disappointed, I also feel that it will not be long before that brave and hardy nation will awaken to a sense of its magnaminity and crown with benedictions the men whom a few mobs have for a time bitterly denounced.

"The Gazette some time ago was kind enough to say that I would use my influence on behalf of peace, and some of my friends, the critics, laughed at the idea that peace would be declared before I left Japan. I do not claim that my going to Japan had the slightest influence one way or the other on the peace question, yet I feel very happy at the singular coincidence that before peace was broached I made up my mind to go to Japan, and that when leaving that beautiful land the wings of the white dove of peace were heard fluttering in the air."

WAR LEAVES 988 WIDOWS IN ONE JAPANESE TOWN

But One Soldier Returns Alive and Village Becomes a Public Orphanage.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Dr. Levy gives an interesting account of the village of Otsu, Japan, which through the imperial law of adoption of that land, has become a public orphanage and home for widows as the result of the war.

When volunteers were first called 989 men from the town of Otsu formed a batallion and went to the front. One man returned. Of the 989 wives, 988 were made widows.

As a result the town is composed almost exclusively of women and children who subsist as best they can and are engagging in the business left by the husbands and fathers who went to war. Under the law of adoption of Japan orphans must be cared for by their nearest relatives and this law provides each child with a mat to sleep on and three bowls of rice a day.

Young Sunday School Teachers.

All the ministerial unions held meetings yesterday. At the United Presbyterian meeting H. F. Carmack, attorney and elder of the Second Presbyterian church, Wilkinsburg, spoke on "The Methods of the Sunday School Teacher." He said 50 per cent of these teachers were under 20 years of age, and many of them were not trained.

MISSIONARIES ARE IN BAD REPUTE

Dr. Levy Administers a Severe Censure to Alleged Religious Teachers in the Orient.

CANNOT DECEIVE JAPANESE

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Reviewing the missionary situation in Japan from a general standpoint the Rev. J. Leonard Levy censured the work of these emissaries in that land in unmeasured terms, from conditions he had learned of and observed.

"Some few make a deep impression upon the people," he said, "and their names are held in great reverence by the men and women who came under their influence, but the story of the large percentage of unfit and unworthy agents who go to Japan, it is too revolting for publication. Suffice to say that it was considered no crime in the missionary to attack the sacredness of the household and to spirit off a child so as to swell the list of numbers converted and saved.

"Then, too, by some arrangement, when trade was dull, the same individual would be trotted around from village to village and converted again and again for the purpose of swelling the number of converted so that funds would be forthcoming from the unsuspecting zealots at home.

"Again, the convert as a rule comes of a class which is known for its rebellious attitude toward the government and by conversion the rebel knows that he is assured of the protection of the foreign government to which the conversionist belongs. There is no doubt but that the uprising in China five years ago was caused by this attitude of the missionaries toward men who ought to have been turned over to the authorities, but who were protected by the various embassies and legations.

"My talks with men of experience and with authorities in Tokyo made it clear to me that missionaries are not taken seriously in the orient. They are looked upon as business agents rather than teachers of religion.

"Wherefor serves the good of converting good Japanese into very poor Christians. They have developed a love of home, a reverence for old age the like of which I have never seen. They love their country, are loyal to the state and stand ever ready to die upon the call of duty or to live to support their parents. There is no such thing as an orphan asylum in all Japan. I would not have you believe for a moment that I consider the religious beliefs of the far east comparable in beauty or worth with the religion that has grown out of the Bible. I am making no comparisons. I am only stating how incongruous the whole matter of conversion appears to me.

"The good side of missionary work in Japan discloses itself to the investigator who has the good fortune to come in contact with a missionary of the character of Verbeck.

"The Japanese being no fools, see that the introduction of the missionaries means an initial step in the direction of increased trade with the countries from which the missionaries hail. Again the wily Japanese knows that the sending of missionaries is a subterfuge for ultimate seizing of territory."

AUTO HURTS TWO MEN.

Machine Belongs to Former Judge Elliott Rodgers and His Chauffeur Was in It.

Former Judge Elliott Rodgers' automobile struck an express wagon last night, overturned it and threw out two men who were riding in it. The automobile and the chauffeur were not hurt.

The automobile was driven by the Rodgers chauffeur, who was on his way to Luna park to take Mrs. Rodgers to her home in Allegheny. At Center avenue and Neville street the machine struck the wagon, and James Gilbert of 166 Thirty-eighth street and J. A. Lusk of 343 Second avenue were thrown out. Gilbert's right wrist was broken and Lusk was injured about the back. Their injuries were dressed at a doctor's office, and they were able to go home.

MUST MEET MAILED FIST OF THE GERMAN EMPEROR

Dr. Levy Declares the Interests of the Kaiser and the Czar Are Identical in the Far East and Uncle Sam's Interests Are Threatened.

SPECIAL LETTER FROM
JEROME NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—That the mailed fist of Emperor William of Germany must eventually, and not at a late day, be met by either Japan or Uncle Sam, is a conclusion that seems clearly evident from facts found by the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy while investigating the American boycott situation in China. While in Japan Dr. Levy became acquainted with one of the men directly responsible for the boycott. From conversation with him he gathered that at the back of the anti-American feeling in China may be seen, so to speak, the silhouette of the German kaiser. The attitude of Germany in San Tung, which is now officially called "our San Tung" by Germans, lends color to this theory.

Dr. Levy states that the money-changers of Japan are exclusively Chinamen and that while he was in Yokohama they refused to change money for Americans as evidence of the existing ill-feeling. The prevailing opinion throughout the far east is that when the kaiser and the czar met at sea a few months ago they met to discuss the disposition of commerce in the Orient.

"The interests of Russia and Germany are identical," declared Dr. Levy, "and both are particularly anxious to open China for trade accommodation. Germany's commercial interests are conceived to be imperiled by England and America and the meeting at sea is construed as having been for the purpose of forming a trade alliance for mutual protection. Many sensational stories are told in Japan as to the aggressiveness of Germany in and around Chinese waters. I heard, for example, that just before the destruction of the Spanish fleet by Dewey, everything had been prepared for Germany to seize the Philippine Islands, and there is now talk of the possibility of Germany entering into some arrangement with Holland for control of the Dutch East Indies.

"Wherever you go and discuss foreign politics, the story of German aggressiveness and demonstration will not down; unquestionably, the astute diplomacy of the German emperor has made its mark on modern history and we do well, so long as the destiny of the Philippine Islands is in the hands of the American people, to consider the attitude of Germany in connection with the future of our nation."

City Controller Larkin threatens to go before councils and ask to have the Hamilton avenue project overturned. This remarkable change of attitude toward street improvements at the public expense, since the hump project was abandoned, is refreshing. The controller is in position to declare that "Richard is himself again."

Magistrates Kirby and Moke may have to resort to arbitration to decide which shall have No. 3 police station. It appears Magistrate Moke objects to Central station, because it is too much in the limelight. If that is all that is worrying him he might as well calm himself. The limelight will shine wherever Moke goes. His court is too good a thing to be overlooked by the enterprising reporter.

It is not creditable to Kentucky that it permits the statue of Henry Clay to stand headless and ghastly in the cemetery at Lexington. It is less creditable when one remembers the failure of an appropriation of $1,200 to restore that head, while thousands were appropriated to erect a new monument to the murdered politician, Goebel. The time will surely come when Kentucky will be ashamed of that record, if it is not now.

Russia is interposing vigorous objections to the fortification of the Bosporus by Turkey. The Turkish excuse that its interests were jeoparded by the insurgent Kniaz Potemkine is bad, but the Russian assumption of a right to dictate in the premises is no better. Russia has for years had pretty nearly its own way in Turkey and about Turkey, with no appreciable improvement in Turkish national ethics. Matters are not likely to get much worse with a few forts on the Bosporus.

An old story of how Cole Younger once saved the life of Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia is revived as an explanation of the financial backing given Younger in a trolley road project in Missouri. There is nothing discreditable to Senator Elkins in the facts. Younger saved his life when, as a Union soldier, he fell into the hands of the Quantrell gang. Elkins has shown his gratitude, and, it may be added, Younger has shown an apparent desire to live a right life since his release from the Minnesota penitentiary.

Reports have it the American Federation of Labor at its coming convention in this city will take strong ground for exclusion of Japanese immigrants. These reports are probably not true. The federation will likely devote its energies to more profitable fields. Japanese immigration is no menace to American labor. During all the years of free ingress the Japanese immigration has been inappreciable and since the war has opened Manchuria it will be less. What would be gained by offering to Japan a gratuitous insult?

President Roosevelt's telegram to the mayor of New Orleans saying he will visit that city next month, or will make a second trip later, expressly for that purpose, should an earlier visit be considered inadvisable, is characteristically Rooseveltian. The president's thoughtfulness is evidenced by his solicitude for the quarantine regulations of other states as they would be affected by his passage through them after leaving Louisiana. Each day brings fresh evidence that Mr. Roosevelt is the president of the whole people and not of any particular section.

Gen. Adna R. Chaffee and the other American officers who have been witnessing the French military maneuvers seem to have made a hit with their hosts. President Loubet says Gen. Chaffee "looks as if it was his exclusive business to lead intrepid troops," a compliment which was doubtless phrased very neatly in the original French, while Gen. Brugere declares that our fighting man is "a soldier from head to foot." Gen. Chaffee returns a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, but he will look the same grim old warrior, "built for business" more than show.

Advancing Oil Prices.

An advance of a half-cent a gallon was made in the price of refined oil yesterday, and of 1-cent a gallon in gasoline. This is likely to be followed by a further advance in Pennsylvania crude, in the Lima grades and possibly in Kansas. The permanence of the enhancement will depend somewhat on the rehabilitation of the Russian fields, though not wholly. The temporary disability of those fields affords an opportunity for American oil to regain lost markets and it may be able to hold them even after the Russian troubles are over.

Russian petroleum has been marketed chiefly through the Shell Transport and Trading Company, a corporation of London. That corporation, by depressing prices, has endeavored to drive American oil out of European and Asiatic markets. It has used Russian oil, mainly, in this effort, but has taken of the Texas product and has developed fields in Burmah. The Baku disaster has broken its hold and has probably inflicted on it pretty severe losses.

In this situation the much execrated, but ever alert, Standard Oil Company finds its opportunity to increase the market for American oil from the Pennsylvania, Lima and Kansas-Territory fields. The battle between it and the Shell company has ceased, at least for the moment, and Pennsylvania and Ohio producers are profiting. When the Baku troubles are over much will depend on the rapidity of recuperation of the Trading company as a factor in the market.

Poor Poland.

When will Russia become a civilized nation in fact as well as in name? The methods employed in Warsaw by Russian officials to elicit confessions from persons suspected of political offenses are feebly described by the adjective barbarous. While the head of the Warsaw city government is ostensibly a magistrate who is one of the people, the real executive authority is a Russian general, whose official position is chief of police and whose word is law. The prisons are packed with persons to the number of 12,000, who have not been permitted even to speak a word in court in their own defense. Torture, we are told, has been employed to compel prisoners to reveal alleged political plots and the names of supposed conspirators against the government. Six men have been subjected to such brutal treatment as to require medical attention, and one has died.

The name Poland ever calls up tragic memories, a story of oppression centuries old and of heroic deeds in defense of a struggling nation. There is something most pathetic in the manner in which patriotic Poles still cling to their nationality, the germ of which, one might think, would have been destroyed long ago. Poor Poland! She has little to hope for in the way of relief until the big storm that appears to be gathering in Russia takes place.

Go North, Young Man!

While the present kind of weather prevails, anything pertaining to the Arctic region, the land of perpetual snow and ice, is an especially refreshing subject for consideration. One cannot help thinking how comfortable Commander Peary and his brave companions must be these days. Of timely interest, therefore, is the suggestion of a correspondent who thinks the commercial possibilities of the North Polar region have not yet been fully appreciated. We find that of the total land and water area of the Arctic circle, including 8,000,000 square miles, not less than 3,000,000 square miles form an entirely unexplored territory. According to logical supposition, there are buried beneath the soil of this unknown region hundreds of thousands of tons of the finest ivory. In 1771 large numbers of skeletons of extinct mastodons were unearthed by an exploring expedition and sold for immense sums. Since that time no organized effort has been made to recover any more of this vast store of wealth. On account of its growing scarcity, ivory is rapidly increasing in value. Manufacturers of billiard balls have already turned their attention toward the discovery of a cheaper substitute, but thus far without success.

If all this be true, it may yet be necessary to paraphrase Horace Greeley's famous advice to read: "Go north, young man." The future scene of youthful activity and enterprise may be the Polar region. A call at this time for volunteers to hunt ivory in a region where ulsters are the usual summer costume would doubtless meet with instant, enthusiastic response.

A Free Trade Objection.

A somewhat frightened note is sounded by the free trade New York Times. Noting The Gazette suggestion for a sound, protectionist revision of the tariff, the Times protests. It does not desire that kind of revision, because that would forestall the kind of revision it advocates. It is opposed to the principle of protection. The New York Times argues at almost a column length that a protective revision of the tariff would be a mockery and reaches this sage conclusion: "When the friends of freer trade lay their hands to the tariff it will be revised, and not till then."

Addition of an r to free trade does not disguise it. When the New York Times speaks of the "friends of freer trade" it is with a marked Boston slight of the liquid consonant. It wants no revision of the tariff by the Fifty-ninth congress because it hopes postponement will deliver the task to "the friends of freer trade." The Gazette, which our New York contemporary describes as a second hand, as "a venerable and ever loyal protectionist journal," desires revision of the tariff by this very congress in order that the country may not fall into the hands of "the friends of freer trade," and into adversity at the same time. The Gazette would have a revision that is real, too, one that would refute the false charge of the free traders that protection is burdensome. The purpose of protection is to cover the difference in cost of production—mainly wages of labor—between this country and Europe, and the Fifty-ninth congress can be trusted to maintain that margin while reducing schedules that far exceed such requirement.

If revision is left to the Democrats, or to "the friends of freer trade," it will be their object to cause a reduction in the cost of production and that means to lower the wages of labor. The Times says of its brand: "Sincere tariff reformers make no concealment of the fact that revision will cause great discomfort in many places where joy and great prosperity now sit hand in hand." The Gazette does not want that kind of revision, but it wants the revision that will lop off excess rates and perpetuate "joy and great prosperity" throughout the land.

In Regular Season.

It is the regular season for Canadian revenue cutters to "shoot up" American fishermen who venture across the boundary. During the past few days Erie has been a genuine news center, an annual occurrence. But there will be no international complications. There is not even an attempt to deny poaching, in violation of treaty rights, and the American government has no call to interfere. In fact, it maintains some very pretty cutters of its own on the lakes to prevent illegal fishing and smuggling.

It is one of the oddities that Erie fishermen persist in crossing the international boundary at this season of the year. There are natural conditions which induce this manifestation, for the fishermen simply follow the fish to that quarter of the lake. This fact does not justify the practice, however. Earlier in the season the fish crowd into the Erie side, where the Canadians are not permitted to cast their nets. That should be the Erie fishermen's harvest. September is the golden month for the Canadian fishers and if the Erie men do not keep out they can take what is coming to them.

Time to Call a Halt.

When a Chicago dispenser of exhilarating liquids attached the revered name of that once "peerless leader," William J. Bryan, to his variation of the seductive concoction known as the "cocktail," we thought the limit in sacrilege had been reached. Throughout the west the free and unlimited coinage of the Bryan cocktail still proceeds merrily, though its consumption in the ratio of 16 to 1 is not attempted by the prudent. The popularity of the Bryan drink inspired a manufacturer of cigars to attempt to corral the Prohibition trade. "The Prohibs don't drink—at least not as a regular thing," he argued, "but a good many of them must smoke, and this will catch them." So he named a cigar after Dr. Swallow. But the latest manifestation of western enterprise overstepped the bounds of good taste to an even greater degree. An attempt to fasten the name of the Epworth League, an organization of young people banded together for good works, to a brand of chewing tobacco has met with such opposition from the society's officials that the plan has been abandoned.

It is well. Had the meretricious scheme succeeded, the door would have been opened to countless other desecrations that jar upon the finer sensibilities. If the sign "Chew Epworth Plug, It Melts in your Mouth," had been emblazoned upon billboards, what might we not have expected? "Foreign Missionary Playing Cards" and "Endeavor Billiard Tables" would have followed as a matter of course, and possibly "Presbyterian Poker Chips" and "Baptist Brass Knuckles." A halt has been wisely called in time.

THE LATEST PLEA OF TOLSTOY FOR REFORM

Chief Points of His Article on "The Great Sin" Which Was Temporarily Suppressed.

The Russ, with the permission of the Russkaia Misl, reprints the last article by Count Leo Tolstoy, "The Great Sin," which appeared in the June number of that magazine, but was suppressed by the censor. Now it is permitted to appear again, of course slightly doctored. We here quote those parts which are of most interest: "* * * The nobles, merchants, officials, doctors, professors, tutors, artists and lawyers, in fact all the people of the cities, the so-called intelligents, are doing their utmost to change the present order of things and to substitute another, which would secure the freedom and well-being of the Russian people. These persons, who have always suffered from all kinds of oppression and violence on the part of the government, such as administrative banishment, exile, suppression of books, papers, strikes, unions, live at the same time a life entirely removed and foreign to that of the bulk of the Russian people—the peasants. They naturally see in these oppressions and restrictions the chief evil, and in the emancipation from them the greatest good for the Russian people."

The Fundamental Evil.

But in the opinion of Tolstoy, the chief evil is not there where they think it is. He says:

"* * * The fundamental evil from which the Russian, as well as the European and American people suffer is the lack of land; the natural right of every man to make use of a part of the soil upon which he was born. It is enough to understand this—to know that until the wholesale thievery of land by the land-sharks is stopped, no political reforms of any kind will give the people freedom and well-being, and that only the emancipation of the people from the present agrarian slavery will make political reforms not a plaything and tool in the hands of politicians for furthering their personal aims, but a true expression of the people's will."

This is the fundamental idea of Tolstoy's last work. After speaking at length of the ideas of Henry George who, in his opinion, was one of the greatest men of the nineteenth century, and was not sufficiently understood or appreciated by his contemporaries, he says further:

"When we once come to the conclusion that private ownership of land is a great sin, everything will be regenerated."

Political Reforms.

Speaking of political reforms and their makers, he says:

"It was not by Alexander II. that the serfs were liberated, but by those people who became aware of the terrible sin of serfdom, and endeavored to rid Russia of it, contrary to their personal advantage. It was people like Novikov, Radischev, and the Decembrists, who were ready to suffer, and did suffer, for that which they considered right, that brought about the abolishment of serfdom.

"The same must also come to pass now in relation to the liberating of the soil.

"I believe that there are many such people now and that they will do everything to forward the great cause—which is not only the cause of the Russian people, but that of the whole world, and which is to become the handiwork of the Russian people.

The Agrarian Question.

"The agrarian question has now reached the same state of ripeness which the institution of serfdom reached 50 years ago. Now, as then, all kinds of reforms are advised, but nothing helped to allay the feeling of unrest among the people as long as the question of personal slavery was not solved—then, as now, all kinds of measures to ease the evil were put forward: inventories, peoples' bank rules, which brought down the husbandry services to three days in the week, etc., etc., but to no avail. Then, as now, the church (or that which calls itself by that name) justified the institution of serfdom. Now, as then, science, which justified serfdom, justifies private ownership of land; now, as then, land owners who become conscious of their great sin, are trying to lighten the peasants' burdens by all kinds of palliative measures, for instance, loan banks, schools, peoples' palaces, moving pictures, theaters—taking good care not to infringe upon the evil itself."

Tolstoy and Gorky.

After reprinting the article in full, the Russ adds:

"This is the contents of the article, 'The Great Sin' * * * In many instances, this work—is a great sin of the great writer against Russian society, and the contemporary nerve-exciting social movement.

"We are now living through a great moment, when the old hindrances and partitions are falling apart! And Tolstoy closes his eyes to the greatness and the responsibilities of the moment.

"Not so Gorky! He looks upon this differently—the agrarian question takes only second place on the line with other important questions of state with him; he says:

"'Give the people liberty, and the soil will be theirs!'

"Tolstoy says:

"'Give them soil—and there will come liberty!'"—Translated by Miss Gorbin for New York Post.

Character in Conduct.

Three boys were told to go and take the exact time by the town clock. The first came back and said: "It is 12 o'clock." He became in after life a bookseller. The second was more exact. He said it was three minutes after 12. He became a doctor. The third looked at the clock, found out how long it took him to walk back to the house, returned to the clock, then added the time of his walk to the time shown, and reported the result thus: "It is at this moment 12 hours, 10 minutes and 15 seconds." That boy came to distinction as Helmholtz, the scientist.—New York Tribune.

A Lesson in Nerve.

It took a Philadelphia school teacher to give a party of Californians a lesson in nerve. After the party had been held up and robbed by a masked highwayman she asked permission to take a photograph of him. He consented and she "snapped" him and got a perfectly lovely picture.—Cleveland Leader.

SOME TIME.

Last night, my darling, as you slept,
I thought I heard you sigh,
And to your little crib I crept,
And watched a space thereby;
And then I stopped and kissed your brow
For oh! I love you so—
You are too young to know it now,
But some time you shall know!

Some time, when in a darkened place,
Where others come to weep,
Your eyes shall look upon a face
Calm in eternal sleep!
The speechless lips, the wrinkled brow,
The patient smile shall show—
You are too young to know it now,
But some time you shall know!

Look backward, then, into the year
And see me here tonight—
See, oh, darling! how my tears
Are falling on thy write;
And feel once more upon your brow
The kiss of long ago—
You are too young to know it now,
But some time you shall know!

MURPHY LISTENS TO THE PUBLIC CLAMOR

Tammany's Boss is More a Follower Than Leader—Gossip of the Metropolis.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The new leader of Tammany, Charles F. Murphy, seems to be pretty much of a trimmer. He seems to be always keeping his ear to the ground for what the people are thinking about. In the days of Croker there was nothing of this sort. He decided the policies of Tammany and picked the candidates as though the city were his own. Murphy picks the candidates, it is true, but he picks those who are the least objectionable, and two years ago he even went so far as to steal two candidates from the fusion ticket aimed to annihilate the tiger. This year he is prepared to take Jerome for district attorney if the fusionists put him on their ticket, and thus take away a large part of the anti-Tammany thunder. But if it comes to a point where Jerome has to run independently, he won't get on the Tammany ticket. Murphy doesn't like the district attorney because he cannot use him and he will not be nominated if Murphy decides he can be beaten at the polls.

But there is another way in which Murphy is trimming this year. He has taken up the municipal ownership plank that was expected to go far toward strengthening the forces of the fusionists. This will make the fight upon men rather than principles, and there is little hope of beating Tammany under those circumstances. Murphy has seen the crowds around the wagons of the municipal ownership league every evening, listening to speeches on the subject, and he has decided that that is what the people want. Then, too, what a lot of pie municipal ownership of public utilities would furnish loyal Tammany men. It certainly looks promising to Murphy.

Morgan, the Hypnotist.

New Yorkers were very much interested today in an article reprinted from the London sketch, in which J. Pierpont Morgan is described as more or less of a hypnotist. A look into Mr. Morgan's eyes convinced the man who wrote the article that he was a fearsome man, and he promptly put it down to the mysterious power that makes others do things against their will. If the great financier has the hypnotic eye it is a wonder that he doesn't work it on some of the New York reporters by whom he seems to be greatly annoyed. But perhaps reporters and book agents are immune.

Evening Schools Will Be Crowded.

The rush of applicants for sittings in the evening schools which open on September 25 would indicate that there will be a great increase in the number of such pupils this year. Since the scope of work has been largely extended more people will find opportunities to improve their minds at these schools. Special attention will be given to women pupils this year. Extra teachers in architectural, mechanical and free hand drawing have been employed to look after the women, although men will be eligible to the same work. The free hand drawing will include sketching from the pose, drawing in charcoal and life work.

Like a Bit of the Emerald Isle.

Madison Square Garden is like a bit of the Emerald Isle this week. The exposition which opened tonight shows many phases of life in Ireland, and a large number of people have been imported direct to give the exact local color. People so inclined can even have a ride in a jaunting car, as seven of these picturesque conveyances have been brought over for the fair. There is also real Irish whisky on tap, and it is sold in the little brown jugs which we have all heard about and some of us have seen. A Gaelic chorus of 500 voices will sing a program of Irish melodies, many of which have never before been heard in America.

Another Tip for McAdoo.

If Police Commissioner McAdoo still has any doubts about the wave of crime that is trying to engulf New York, he can now inquire about it from his friend, Joseph W. Cain, superintendent of highways in the borough of Queens. Mr. Cain entertained a burglar early this morning. It was a warm reception he gave him, and the affair lasted some moments. But the burglar finally made his escape, slightly bruised but still able to burgle, and then Mr. Cain took an inventory of his valuables and discovered that he was shy about $50 worth, while the burglar was just that much to the good.

Now About the Weather.

Some time ago a remark was made in this column about the delightful weather in New York during September. Let us hope that those Pittsburghers who have been visiting Gotham the past few days did not take it seriously. One never should write weather news from memory of what has gone before. New York is "usually" a delightful spot in September, but not this year. We have been having the nastiest sort of weather the past week, which is all the harder to stand after some very fine days a little earlier. A cold drizzling rain, with occasional gusts of real showers, has been the order of the day, which is not the pleasantest thing in the world for sightseeing.

SOME GOOD STORIES OF PITH AND MOMENT

Gossipy Chat and Anecdote of Entertaining and Instructive Character.

Sir John Carr was rather fond of telling the following story:

While in Glasgow he was asked by the magistrates to give his advice concerning the inscription to be placed on the Nelson monument, then just completed. Sir John recommended as a brief and appropriate epigraph, "Glasgow to Nelson."

"Just so," said one of the bailies, "and as the toon o' Nelson's (Nelslon) close at hand, might we no' just say 'Glasgow to Nelson, six miles,' and so it might serve as a monument and milestone too."—Tit-Bits.

Christianity in Fly Time.

A Kansas farmer went to the pastor of his church and asked that his name be stricken from the church list. "What is the trouble, Brother Jones?" asked the surprised minister. "I supposed you were a faithful follower of the lamb." "Well, I sorter thought that myself, but there is just no use a talkin', a man can't serve the Lord when he has to milk five cows in fly time. After the first heavy frost I'll try this church business again, but now I'll either have to sell my cows or give up church work, or be a durned hypocrite."

Where He Was Shot.

Speaking of the tribulations of the cross-examiner, a recent writer cites this experience: In the progress of a murder trial near Kansas City he wished to learn from the witness just where the bullet struck the victim.

"Where was this man shot?" was asked.

"Right here in this town," replied the witness.

"Yes, I know; but where did the bullet hit him?"

"Near Sixth and Wyoming streets."

"You don't understand me. Where did the bullet enter?"

"It came in the window."

"But in what part of the body did it lodge?"

"It never hit his body."

"Well, it certainly hit him somewhere—he is dead?"

"Hit him in the head," said the witness.

Unsafety of Proverbs.

A certain schoolmaster has concluded that it is not safe to teach proverbs to very young children.

"Now, boys, always remember," he said one day, "that the early bird catches the worm."

Next morning a small boy used the line with a tear-stained face.

"What's the matter, Tommy?" asked the teacher.

"Please sir, you said that it was the early bird that got the worm."

"Yes."

"Well, father thrashed me!"

"What for, my boy?"

"'Cos, sir, I let our canary out early this morning, and it never came back with the worm."—Indianapolis News.

A Pun With Feathers on It.

Senator Newlands of Nevada is one of the few American statesmen who love puns. The senator often reveals his colleagues with puns, original and quoted. It is generally admitted that he is an excellent judge of this sort of wit.

"Here," said Senator Newlands the other day, "is a Nevada pun.

"An old farmer sat on the doorstep smoking his pipe. His favorite hen pecked near him. He regarded the hen indulgently as he puffed the smoke into the clear evening air.

"All of a sudden he gave a start of astonishment.

"'By jinks!' he said, 'the old hen is eating sirny tacks. Can she be going to lay a carpet?'"—New York Tribune.

Answering Silence Oppressive.

Young ladies with a fondness for infantile admirers should be warned by an episode at a seaside resort last summer.

An engaging masculine of 7 years became on exceedingly good terms with the belle of their particular hotel, a girl of about 20 years his senior. One day the charmer asked the swain to go bathing, and after the bath, as they returned to their bathhouses, the small man suggested a race to see who could dress first. They entered the bathhouses, which adjoined, and in a short time a youthful treble called: "Miss Ethel, oh, Miss Ethel, I've got my stockings on."

A low contralto voice answered: "Yes, Robbie, so have I."

After a short pause the irrepressible again called: "Miss Ethel, I've got my shoes on."

Again came the answer: "Yes, dear, so have I."

Again a pause—then a triumphant voice shrilly proclaimed: "Miss Ethel, I've got my pants on."

The answering silence was oppressive.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Motion He Couldn't Overrule.

A judge of the supreme court is fond of yachting, and a few days ago he invited a friend of his to go for a cruise with him. At the start the wind was quite brisk, but soon freshened into a gale and made the little craft toss and roll in a manner that caused the guest's features to twist into expressive contortions. The judge, noticing his friend's plight, laid a soothing hand on the other's shoulder, and said: "My dear fellow, can I do anything for you?" "Yes," replied the other in plaintive tones, "you will greatly oblige me by overruling this motion."—New York Tribune.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings About the People Who Are Traveling.

The wonders of Pittsburgh will be imparted today by two Japanese gentlemen of Tokyo. They are T. Noda and S. Mujakawa, who are stopping at the Henry while making their visit to this city. It is the one principal point of interest to them in America. So far they have been well impressed with America, but because of their having arrived from New York last evening after dark, they had no chance to see Pittsburgh except as they rode along on the Pennsylvania Limited and saw the lights of the big steel mills. They marvel at American economy as they observed it on their trip across Pennsylvania today.

"We have just come from England," said Mr. Noda, who speaks English rather fluently. "We have heard so many things about Pittsburgh from our countrymen who have visited America, that it is the principal city we want to visit in our tour of the land. A couple of days will give us a pretty good idea of its vast steel industries and electric plants, will it not?

"What do I think of the public settlements? It is all right; it must be all right. Some of the Japanese people did not like it and created disturbances in our own land, but this has died away, so far as I can learn from the daily dispatches. We were in England when the settlement was reached. One thing that impressed us was the admiration shown by all nations for your president, Mr. Roosevelt. He has made a great, a very great name for himself for history. It is an honor, sir, to be a fellow-countryman of his. Every American should feel this, and should emulate the president's admirable qualities of manhood. Japan and the whole world today honors him more than any other single individual of the world."

Grape Crop Very Short.

H. S. Goldberg of New York, representing the Consolidated California Vineyard Company, says that the California grape crop will be from 10 to 25 per cent short of former crops, varying with the different vineyards and with the varieties of grapes. He said that in consequence of this the prices of California wines will likely rise to a marked degree. Mr. Goldberg is registered at the Hotel Henry.

"I have been traveling into Pittsburgh for several years," said he, "but never have I found business so good as now. Pittsburgh has awakened, for I find the same story of excellent business from almost every traveling man I meet here. Pittsburghers are lovers of California wines, but they will probably have to pay more for them this year than formerly. I think I can speak with some authority of the crop in California in general, for we have 11 of the largest vineyards of the state operated by our company."

CHINA PREPARES FOR AWAKENING

Sending Commission to This Country to Study Plans for Improvement.

PRESIDENT MAY BRAVE FEVER

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Secretary of the Navy Charles J. Bonaparte and Mrs. Bonaparte, were dinner guests this evening of President and Mrs. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill. They arrived on the dispatch boat Dolphin from Boston.

The visit of the secretary of the navy was devoid of special significance. He had been on a trip in the east and now is en route to Washington. Never having been at Sagamore Hill he accepted the president's invitation to visit him. After dining with the president and Mrs. Roosevelt the secretary and Mrs. Bonaparte went aboard the Dolphin and proceeded to New York. Secretary Bonaparte expects to be in Washington in a day or two, perhaps tomorrow.

Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the Chinese minister presented to President Roosevelt this afternoon Wang Tai Hsie, an attache of the Chinese office, who came to this country several weeks ago as an envoy of the Chinese government, to be present at the Portsmouth peace conference in the event that China's appeal for representation with the conference was granted. It was decided that no other countries than Russia and Japan should be represented at the conference and the Chinese envoy remained during the conference with Sir Liang at Amherst, Mass. He will return shortly to China, Sir Liang saying this evening that he was "too valuable a man to be allowed to remain long away from his post."

China Getting Awake.

Sir Liang and Mr. Wang remained with the president nearly an hour. Later Minister Liang chatted frankly on several topics. He said their call today was one simply of respect.

Mr. Wang did not come to this country to negotiate an exclusion treaty," said the minister, "and that subject was not even mentioned in our conversation with the president. In fact there was no particular significance in our visit."

Sir Liang was asked about the recent purchase by the Shinese government of the Canton-Hankow railroad and its concessions.

"That is purely a local Chinese enterprise," he responded. "No, the Japanese have nothing whatever to do with it. That line is to be operated and extended by the people of the three provinces through which eventually it will run, Hunan, Quantung and Hupeh. Foreign engineers will be employed to make the extensions, but they will be simply employes. Chinese will own and operate the road.

"There really is not the prejudice in China against railroads that is popularly supposed. Recently there has been a great awakening among the Chinese and enterprises of various kinds are being projected successfully. All this, of course, is a matter of education. To advance the interests of education and to study methods a commission consisting of a prince, a privy councillor, a governor of a province and an assistant treasurer has been appointed to visit Europe and America. The commission will make an exhaustive investigation and its report will be made the base of advanced action on the part of the government."

Sir Liang and Mr. Wang left for New York at 6:12 p. m., expecting to go to Washington tonight.

President Fears No Plague.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 18.—President Roosevelt, who on Saturday last opened the Diamond exposition given at New Orleans for the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers, today received from Mayor Behrman of that city the following telegram:

The people of New Orleans thank you heartily for your expressions of sympathy and the help you are giving us. We are stamping out yellow fever and you are aiding us. Should you come to New Orleans our appreciation and feelings will be shown in the welcome we will give you. I write this as the sentiment of the 20,000 citizens who surround me and of all the people of the city.

Replying to a suggestion in Mayor Behrman's dispatch, President Roosevelt this afternoon sent the following:

I thank you for your telegram of the 16th. Nothing has been closer to my heart this summer than the welfare of the people of Louisiana and New Orleans and each day the first information I have sought has been as to the progress made in fighting the scourge under which they have suffered.

My trip to the south begins on the 18th of October. I had expected to arrive in New Orleans Tuesday, October 24. If the people of Louisiana and New Orleans desire me to come at that time, of course I shall come. If they desire me to come later I shall make a second trip for the express purpose of visiting Louisiana and Arkansas. I wish you to consider in the matter simply the wishes of the people of Louisiana and New Orleans, and also of course, the question of quarantine regulations of other states in so far as they would be affected by my entering them after leaving Louisiana. I shall do whatever the people of New Orleans and Louisiana wish, subject only to the feeling of the other states on this quarantine matter.

DELEGATES ARRIVING.

McKeesport Is Filled With Members of O. of I. A., Which Holds its Convention There.

Many delegates to the state convention of the O. of I. A. at McKeesport arrived yesterday and last night, and all preparations have been completed for the opening of the sessions this morning in the auditorium. Among the delegations which arrived last night were three from Harrisburg, six from Reading, 15 from the Philadelphia district, three from Chester, 10 from York and three from Shillington. Chairman G. M. Brown of the reception committee has received replies from 175 councils, stating that a total of 450 delegates will attend the meeting.

One of the first items of business to be taken up this morning will be the nomination of officers. The elections will take place tomorrow. H. H. Markus of McKeesport is a candidate for the office of state vice councillor and H. B. Woodrow for state inside sentinel. Woodrow is also a McKeesport man.

State Councillor Whitehead will recommend that the last Sunday in June each year be set apart as Independent American Memorial day and that donations be made by the members of the order on Thanksgiving day for the orphans; also that the organization lend assistance to the Grand Army of the Republic in keeping alive the observance of Memorial day. Last night the visiting officers were guests of the local order on a trolley ride to Buena Vista.

THE REV. EMANUEL FRIED RECEIVS BAD INJURY

The Rev. Emanuel Fried of the new Jewish synagogue, McKeesport, which was dedicated Sunday, was yesterday seriously injured, and it is feared that he may not recover. While standing in his yard in Fourth avenue he was struck on the head with a lump of coal thrown from a passing Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad train. He fell to the ground stunned, and a fracture of the skull is feared.

He will deliver two addresses at the First Methodist Episcopal church regarding the late war between Russia and Japan. The Rev. Swearer is a native of Brownsville, Pa., and has spent several years in the missionary service in Korea.

OIL COMPANY WINS SUIT.

McKean County Court Decides Oil Is a Mineral—Case an Important One.

OIL CITY, PA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—The United Natural Gas Company, a Standard Oil concern, has won an important suit in McKean county brought against it by the Swedish Lutheran church of Kane, in which the church contended that gas is not a mineral. The church sought to eject the company from land which had been donated to the congregation by the late Gen. Kane in 1867, the mineral rights having been reserved for himself and his successors.

In 1891 the gas company secured a lease to drill for oil and gas from the holders of the mineral rights. The land in dispute is 40 rods long, with the church at one end and the gas well at the other. The church entered a claim for $40,000 profits, arguing that the product of the well was not a mineral subject to lease rights.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

Railroad Men Form A Whiskers Brigade

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—Nearly 100 employes of the Big Four railway shops here have formed a "whiskers brigade" and entered into a compact not to shave again until next spring. The action is not due to any impulse of economy nor because the men have a grudge against the barbers' union. They believe beards will protect their health during the cold weather. A scrubby hirsute growth now marks the chin of every member.

COLONEL BANNING DIES AFTER AN ACTIVE CAREER

One of the Wealthiest Citizens of Fayette County Passes Away at Banning Station.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—Col. Anthony Rodgers Banning, aged 74 years, one of Fayette county's wealthiest and best-known citizens, died Saturday night on his farm at Banning station, in Perry township. The body was brought to Connellsville and today shipped to Mt. Vernon, O., the old home of the deceased. Col. Banning was a grandson of the Rev. Anthony Mansfield Banning, one of the pioneer preachers of the Methodist Episcopal church west of the Allegheny mountains.

He was a son of James S. and Eliza A. Banning and was one of a family of nine children. He received his education near Bannings Mills, O., and came to Fayette county when 25 years old. He was a farmer in early life, but later amassed a large fortune by buying and selling coal lands and organizing and combining coal and coke companies. His wife, who was formerly Mrs. Catherine M. Torrence, died in 1898.

COMMISSIONERS ARE ANGRY.

Youghiogheny Bridge at West Newton to Be Closed Again by the County.

GREENSBURG, PA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—The county commissioners will take drastic measures in regard to the tearing down of the barricades erected at the approaches of the bridge spanning the Youghiogheny river at West Newton. Sheriff George J. Seanor will go to West Newton tomorrow and will again close the bridge. It is understood that a guard will be placed to prevent the tearing down of the barricades.

If the barricades are again torn down the commissioners say they will have nothing further to do with the case, claiming that West Newton residents will alone be responsible for any injury that may be sustained in the weakened condition of the structure.

GUARD WILL ESCORT FORMER SWEETHEART TO THE PRISON

Lovers of Days Gone by Meet Within the Cold Walls of a West Virginia County Jail. Sentenced for Murder.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Sept. 18.—The trying ordeal of taking to prison his former sweetheart has fallen to the lot of Guard H. F. Williams of the Moundsville penitentiary force. This evening, at Grantsville, he will remove from the Calhoun county jail Mrs. Gene Blackshire, convicted of complicity in the murder of her husband, Henry Blackshire, six months ago.

When Williams entered the jail at Grantsville and saw the woman, the first time since she refused him her hand in marriage and told him that she loved "Henry better and will marry him," she fell back in her chair, and said:

"My God, it is you who are sent to see me in disgrace; why could they not have sent some one else?"

Mrs. Blackshire is on the verge of physical collapse, and at frequent intervals prays that she may be saved from serving the term in the penitentiary, saying that she is innocent and a just God would not permit the innocent to suffer. Mrs. Blackshire employed two men—Bub McCrosky and Louis Hendricks—to kill her husband, and evidence was shown at the trial that she assisted in the murder. Blackshire was first poisoned, presumably by his wife, and later shot to death by the hired assassins who are now serving life sentences for the crime. The woman's sentence is generally recognized as light in view of the heinousness of the crime.

EPHRAIM HOOVER.

He celebrated his 80th birthday yesterday at New Castle. He is recognized as one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the country.

DO NOT CARE FOR OFFICIALS.

Robbers Loot Postoffice While Government Inspector Sleeps Across the Street.

ALTOONA, PA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—While United States Inspector Stayer was sleeping in a hotel directly across the street, the postoffice at Carrolltown, seven miles north of here, was entered this morning by thieves, who carried away cash and stamps amounting to $400. The safe was blown open with nitroglycerin, the safe door being torn completely from its hinges. Everything of value about the place, including the postmaster's books, was taken.

Inspector Stayer and Postmaster W. F. Donohue were aroused by the explosion and hurried to the place, but when they arrived the robbers had escaped with their loot. The outlaws covered their tracks and have not yet been apprehended. An effort is being made to capture them with the aid of bloodhounds owned by Cambria county.

SONS OF VETERANS OPEN GETTYSBURG ENCAMPMENT

GETTYSBURG, PA., Sept. 18.—The annual encampment of the National Association of Sons of Veterans opened this evening with a largely attended reception, tendered to the visiting members and their friends by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Gettysburg camp. The town is rapidly filling up with the veterans, whose encampment promises to be one of unusual attendance. The business sessions will begin tomorrow.

Fire at an Oil Refinery.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—Fire of unknown origin broke out at the refinery of the Standard Oil Company here tonight. The building in which paraffine is made was entirely consumed together with several smaller buildings and one large tank of crude oil. The oils, wax and grease made a fire so hot the firemen could not get close to it, and for a time it looked as if the whole 50 acres of refinery property would be swept.

Bible Students to Meet.

CALIFORNIA, PA., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—The Washington County Bible School association will hold the district convention No. 16 in the Second Avenue Christian church in this city on Tuesday, September 19. The address of welcome will be delivered by Dr. Theodore B. Noss. An interesting program has been prepared.

EQUITABLE WILL NOT ASSIST.

No More Contributions for Political Purposes to Be Made by the Society.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(Special.)—Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Assurance association, is authority for the statement that, whatever may have been the condition of the Equitable in the past, it shall never again contribute to a political campaign fund, so long as he is at its head.

"As I said in my recent address to Equitable agents in Manhattan Beach, it is my purpose to divorce this society from politics," said Mr. Morton. "I do not want the society in politics, nor do I want politicians in the society. I had this very thought of campaign contributions in my mind when I made that speech in the agents' convention—that should be drawn upon for political purposes. I doubt our legal right to do it and I doubt the policy of doing it, even if we had the legal right."

Boarder Kills Himself.

MINERS, CONVENTION WILL BE HELD TO FIX DEMANDS

President John Mitchell Announces Date of Gathering Which Will Formulate New Scale.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SHAMOKIN, PA., Sept. 18.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America, announced today that the convention of mine workers of the three anthracite districts at which demands will be formulated to be presented to the anthracite coal companies next spring, will be held here on December 14.

The mine workers of the three districts will shortly elect delegates to represent them at the meeting. The decision to hold a convention to formulate demands is similar to the action taken before the great strike in 1902, when a convention was held here to draw up demands. The award of the anthracite coal strike commission will expire March 31 next year. President Mitchell has been in the anthracite region for the last two months holding meetings every day for the purpose of strengthening the union. After the 1902 strike there was a considerable falling off in membership. As a result of the campaign the miners' leader is waging, many of those who dropped out of the organization are returning.

Among the demands that the convention will probably formulate are an eight-hour day for all classes of mine workers, recognition of the union and a yearly agreement with the coal companies similar to the one existing in some of the bituminous coal fields of the middle west.

WILL ACT AS FIREMEN.

Etna Councilmen Will Fight Flames Until Peace Is Restored.

After Etna council had conceded all the demands of the resigning firemen of that borough the entire force permanently resigned because council would not reelect Chief Alexander Andrews for a term of three and one-half years. The councilmen then appointed Superintendent of Light and Water Joseph M. Harmon to fill the vacancy of fire chief and pledged themselves to answer all fire alarms and do the duty of the firemen. The main complaint of the firemen was that they had been condemned without trial of having used their fire house as a club and indulged in gambling and card playing.

men: a shirt chance

$1.50 Stiff Bosom Shirts, $1.00.

This is a case in point—we figure to make up the financial loss in the number of friends this unusual proceeding will make for the store.

We propose to sell to every interested man today $1.50 fancy Madras Shirts, with cuffs attached, for $1.00.

Perfectly clean and fresh—never shown before—dainty solid light Blue, Tan and Grey grounds with fancy woven figures—all sizes—various sleeve lengths.

Let every man get his share—and those who don't, can't say they didn't have notice.

That's all.

Small lot—not all sizes—colored "Star" Shirts—stiff bosoms, coat style, separate cuffs, $1.50 and $2.00 ones, $1.00—pretty patterns.

East Bellevue

By — The — Loop

The public holds but one opinion respecting East Bellevue.

Our revised version of the goose that laid the golden egg is now universally accepted as illustrating the most interesting truth ever stated in connection with real estate.

Every foot of property in East Bellevue is a golden egg. The great belt-line trolley connecting the Bellevue line with the West View line is the goose that laid it. And out of the opportunity rolls a Vesuvius of values which no person who has had any practical experience in land-ownership can witness without enlisting himself as a factor in what will be unquestionably the most wonderful new suburb ever created.

As a mass of the people who live in that part of the Ohio Valley extending from the Eleventh Ward of Allegheny to Sewickley, look with chagrin upon the blast-furnace and other smoke clouds belched from the river's expanding workshops, it also views the commanding summit of East Bellevue with knowledge that the bituminous bodies can never go there. That the clean, pure air will always remain untainted. That the grand view of distant highlands will continue unimpaired. That no other section east of Haysville is sufficiently broad, beautiful and beneficial to satisfy such a population as will be necessary to make profitable the great trolley system that is now being installed.

East Bellevue is nearer to Bellevue than Avalon is. These three places adjoin each other, but all of East Bellevue is up above the fog and smoke line in the pure sunlight. So is a small portion of Bellevue, but the clean part of Bellevue is the part that lies above Lincoln Avenue, next to East Bellevue.

On Ninth Street, or on Liberty Avenue at Wood Street or Sixth Avenue, or on Seventh Street

TAKE A BELLEVUE OR A WEST VIEW CAR.

Either line is completed to East Bellevue. The former takes you through the Ohio River district and the latter through the Perrysville district.

The ride on the West View line is about four minutes longer, but the landscape view on this route is unsurpassed.

The Bellevue line will take you through finely built-up territory.

Remember These Facts,

and then consider that you cannot purchase lots in Avalon or Bellevue equal to those in East Bellevue for less than $1,600 to $3,000. Bear in mind that the clean part of Bellevue will be built up solidly before another year has expired, and that then all that will be left of the choice clean land will be in East Bellevue.

From the highlands of East Bellevue you can now see where 100 fine homes have been built this summer in that part of Bellevue which is clean and skirts our property. Isn't that a mighty argument in favor of East Bellevue, where all the lots are close to the cars and have building restrictions?

East Bellevue streets are graded, sewered, and will soon be electric lighted and piped with gas and the same pure sand-filtered city water that is furnished to Bellevue and West View.

Most of the lots are 40x150 feet. Some are larger.

Prices range from $75, $100, $150, $200, $250, $300, $350, $400, $450 to $1,000, on terms of 5 per cent down and 2½ per cent monthly, with 10 per cent off for cash.

The tendency on the part of North Side renters to have homes of their own, and especially to own Bellevue homes, is so apparent that we have engaged one of the finest architects in the country, whose services will be at the command of purchasers of East Bellevue property free of charge.

There will also be given free to each purchaser a Provisional Premium Bond, which will earn or give back to the holder 5 to 25 per cent of the amount of his purchase, provided purchaser takes advantage of its provisions.

DELAY IN COUNT UNTIL TODAY

Republican Official Returning Board Will Begin Its Labors This Afternoon.

REED CLAIMS NOMINATION

The official count of the vote cast in Republican county primaries of Saturday will begin at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Grant street headquarters. Chairman T. J. Ford expects to have the work completed by Friday, but it may take longer.

The returning board met yesterday afternoon and organized by the election of Mr. Ford as chairman and Charles A. Muehlbronner as secretary. As the time for filing contests does not close until 3 o'clock this afternoon, it was decided to wait until that hour before beginning the work. No contests have been filed and Chairman Ford is of the opinion that none will be presented. He says it would have been unfair to have given notice of a contest after the official envelopes had been opened. The board agreed with him.

Harry Sellers, representative of John A. Reed, candidate for clerk of courts, wanted the returning board to compute the vote of each district as the returns were read. Chairman Ford said this system would delay the count indefinitely. It was decided the returns would be tabulated and then a number of experts could be put to work computing the votes as required by the rules, each candidate being given his proportionate share of the vote cast for president in the district. The board will meet from 3 until 6 o'clock each day and at night if necessary. Between sessions, the clerks can compute the votes.

Members of the Board.

The board is composed of the four officers of the county committee, Chairman Thomas J. Ford, Secretary Charles A. Muehlbronner, Vice Chairman L. L. Davis and Treasurer D. L. Gillespie, and representatives of the candidates before the primaries, as follows: James F. Woodward for Robert E. Stone; A. D. Armstrong for John A. Fairman; Paul W. Wyler for Harvey A. Lowry; John H. Henderson for Robert K. Cochrane; Albert Wagner for Charles B. Price; George P. Murray for W. W. Murray; W. A. Magee, Jr., for I. E. Campbell; Samuel Eades for Franklin P. Booth; David B. Johns for George Z. Hosack; Harry Sellers for John A. Reed; W. T. Tredway for W. H. Guy.

Judge James S. Young, Prothonotary W. B. Kirker and William Dodds, candidate for clerk of courts, have not named representatives on the board. The following clerks have been selected: W. E. Campbell, David Sample, Joseph E. Blank, W. S. Cummings, A. H. Sauers, F. E. Richards, L. C. Brown, R. T. Brown, George Earrett, Benjamin Davis and W. C. Young. The members of the board and the clerks were sworn.

In apportioning the presidential vote the mathematicians will find the most work in computing the result of the commissionership contest. Each voter was entitled to vote for two candidates. It will take some extra figuring to properly divide this vote and several plans are being considered.

Reed Claims Nomination.

Harvey A. Lowrey, who was a candidate for recorder, is satisfied with the result of the primaries, even though he did not secure the nomination. He says the complete returns will show he made a good fight.

W. W. Murray for commissioner and John A. Reed for clerk of courts think they have a chance to win. Reed says he is confident of his nomination. He predicts the official count will show he is entitled to 3,000 presidential votes outside of Pittsburgh. If he is correct there will not be much question about his nomination. William Dodds is just as confident that Reed is defeated and the same view is held by almost everyone except Reed. If there has been a mistake made of the magnitude claimed by Reed in the unofficial returns, it will be discovered by the returning board. Reed says that many of the figures reported to headquarters Saturday night were not correct.

Murray says he has been receiving telephone messages from various parts of the county and is hopeful there will be enough change in the official count to make him a winner. He says he has no plan for making contests.

There were busy times at headquarters yesterday. Representatives from all but 20 election districts in the county called to deliver their returns and receive the pay for the election officers. The missing returns are expected this morning. As the return envelopes are sealed it is impossible to secure the votes from districts which did not report Saturday night.

The Citizens committee on vacancies held a meeting yesterday, but did not fill the ticket. It will wait for the official returns from the Republican primaries before nominations of one candidate for commissioner, a prothonotary and director of the poor are made.

An order was issued in quarter sessions court yesterday appointing Robert A. Balner constable of South Fayette township.

NO BAIL IN BUTLER.

J. H. Miller Is Accused of Embezzling the Receipts of the Toner Institute Farm.

J. H. Miller of 143 North Craig street was held in $500 yesterday by Alderman McMasters on charges of embezzlement and larceny by bailee.

John Faulil of 350 East Jefferson street, Butler, one of the trustees of the Toner Roman Catholic Institute, alleges that several months ago Miller was appointed superintendent of the Institute farm, near Butler, and, upon severing his connection with the trustees last month, failed to account for about $400 which he collected from sales made. Miller is also charged with retaining an account book, valued at $200, containing notes of all transactions and business pertaining to the farm.

Miller was unable to furnish the bond, but, upon a strong plea made by his attorney, the alderman sent a constable with him to Butler last night, where he said his brother would go on his bond. Miller failed to get the bail and was returned here last night and committed to jail for a hearing next Friday.

Beef Trust Raises Question of Validity of Grand Jury Which Indicted It.

BRINGS UP SEVERAL POINTS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—By pleas in abatement, attorneys, representing the 17 meat packers and other persons indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring in a trust to monopolize the meat business today, attacked the position of the government.

The attack was made against the empanneling of the jury; alleged improper service of a summons on John Murray, one of the jurors; unlawful secrecy at the time the jury was drawn from the box; unlawful presence of a stenographer in the jury room during the hearing and the subsequent writing of the shorthand notes; that the indictment was returned in the eastern division of Illinois, although the jury which found the indictment was sitting in the northern division of the northern district.

This plea, which is lengthy, was filed late this afternoon with District Attorney C. B. Morrison, after an all-day's conference between Attorney John S. Miller, general counsel for the packers, and a number of associate attorneys in the case. There were no court proceedings, and the plea has not yet been properly filed with the clerk of the district court, which will be done tomorrow.

The main ground on which the defendants stand in their plea is the presence of John Murray in the jury. It is their assertion that the jury was drawn from the box previously to March 4, at which time a law redistricting the northern district of Illinois went into effect, excluding Kankakee county, the home of John Murray, from the northern division of the northern district of Illinois. By the terms of the new law this county was placed in the eastern division of the northern district, and therefore not within the jurisdiction of the court. To substantiate the allegation that the jury was illegal and incompetent, because of Murray's presence, it is declared in the plea that Murray was served on March 8, five days after the enactment of the law removing Kankakee county from this division, by a deputy marshal of another division of the district.

CARLTON'S RECORD BEING LAID BEFORE GRAND JURY

Five of His Wives, Several Ministers and Other Witnesses Tell of His Weddings.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Legal process supplied another detail today in the devious life history of Frederick E. Carlton, who has been called the "Brooklyn Bluebeard," when the Kings county grand jury, it is said, brought in indictments charging Carlton with bigamy.

It is believed that no fewer than six counts are contained in the bill, for that number of women appeared before the jury and gave testimony against Carlton.

District Attorney Clarke and his aids manifested extreme reticence as to what took place in the grand jury room, and the result of the jurymen's deliberations over the case.

New and important evidence regarding the man's matrimonial entanglements is thought to have been obtained by the district attorney, as five of the supposed wives of the man who were examined today have not previously figured publicly in connection with Carlton's career.

Besides the six women, three ministers and several other men were heard by the jury. As each emerged from the jury room he, or she, was turned over to a detective who escorted them away from the court house, rendering futile any endeavor to interview them.

Attacks a Spectator.

D. McAllister, a street car conductor, who lives at Thirty-ninth and Mifflin streets, stopped to look at a fight in Butler street, near Penn avenue, last night. One of the combatants objected to spectators and struck McAllister, so the police say. Then McAllister laid the man out with one blow. He is at the St. Francis hospital and is unknown. McAllister was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Runaway Wagon Hurts Motorman.

N. A. Mackly was driving a two-horse wagon, to which was attached a light wagon, yesterday. Opposite the Bellefield apartments the light wagon broke loose from its fastenings and started down hill, crashing into a traction car, smashing its front and pinning Motorman Huber behind the motor box, breaking one of his legs.

OPEN SEWER RECEIVES AUTO AND TWO OCCUPANTS

Unprotected by Light L. L. Dilworth Guides Machine Into It and, With Woman Companion, Is Severely Injured.

Speeding rapidly down the Beechwood boulevard last night about 8:30 o'clock an automobile runabout containing L. L. Dilworth of Stanton and Highland avenues, and Mrs. Carrie Hook of Oakland square, crashed into a sewer opening almost directly under the Lincoln avenue bridge. Both the occupants were thrown out. Mr. Dilworth sustained severe injuries about the head and shoulders, while Mrs. Hook had one knee injured.

The sewer ditch, which is said to have been unguarded and unprotected by a light, lies to the right of the boulevard looking toward the river. The automobile was going at a good rate of speed and the occupants did not see the opening until too late. The hole was over six feet deep and about the same in width, and the automobile struck it fairly in the center and plunged into the opposite bank.

Mr. Dilworth was seated on the right side of the machine and as he lurched forward partly threw Mrs. Hook back of him, greatly reducing the force of her fall. Occupants of a carriage who had had witnessed the affair came to the couple's assistance and they were taken to a physician's office and later assisted home. The automobile was badly wrecked, the front axle being bent and the gearing and running gear being practically destroyed. It remained in the ditch for some time after the accident, but was later removed by employes of an East End garage.

PANAMA CANAL ZONE DESCRIBED IN LECTURE

Dillwynn M. Hazlett, Trudged the District With Camera, Shows Work as it Is.

An interesting lecture on Panama and the Panama canal was delivered last night by Dillwynn M. Hazlett. Mr. Hazlett went all over the canal zone, sometimes horseback or muleback, at other times on foot, carrying two big photographic cameras. When a boy he worked in the harvest fields of Pennsylvania, and he said last night that when the canal commission had made conditions sanitary in Panama there was no reason why American young men should not do even the unskilled labor on the canal construction, the actual digging of the big ditch. He said it was true that even in the United States the transcontinental railroads were built by Chinese labor and that railroads today were built with foreign labor, but the reason the American would not do the work was because wages were too low. In the canal zone, however, he maintained, the government was now paying better wages for unskilled labor and would soon pay still more, wherefore the American unskilled workman would find it remunerative, besides healthful, to help dig the Panama canal.

Mr. Hazlett's talk was illustrated with colored lantern slides. He briefly told the history of the canal zone, showed pictures of the work done by the French company, its masses of machinery now rusting away, covered with tropical vegetation, gave sections of the work done by the Americans, particularly portions of the great Culebra cut; presented views of Colon and Panama, of the houses in which the American workmen and officials live and sleep and eat.

Mr. Hazlett spoke highly of the hospital service in the canal zone, and even presented on the canvas the bill of fare provided for the patients. He said a breeze was always blowing in the zone and he had suffered more from the heat in the United States than in Panama. He dwelt on the commercial possibilities of the zone for Americans.

This evening Mr. Hazlett will lecture in Greensburg. He has two lectures, the one he delivered last night and another in which he explains the possibilities of Protestant missionary work among the Catholics of Panama. Mr. Hazlett was the official photographer of the great Sunday school trip to the Holy Land two years ago.

TRANSFER OF BANZHOFF NOT AT ALL POLITICAL

Division Agent Foust Says Pure Food Man Was Needed in Philadelphia to Relieve Dr. Warren.

James Foust, division agent of the state dairy and food commission, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday to take charge of the work of uncovering adulterations of foodstuffs and prosecuting the adulterators. Mr. Foust's district is composed of 30 counties west of the Susquehanna river.

Mr. Foust took occasion to deny that the transfer of H. L. Branzhoff, his predecessor, to Philadelphia was because of political reasons.

"For a year past," said Mr. Foust, "Dr. B. H. Warren of the pure food commission has contemplated sending a man to Philadelphia to relieve Dr. Warren, who has been doing himself two-thirds of the work there. He considered Mr. Branzhoff the right man for the place and sent him there. Dr. Warren now has more time for the duties of his office in Harrisburg. Mr. Branzhoff gets the same salary he received before."

It was reported that Mr. Foust intended to bring prosecutions by the wholesale against adulterators of food products.

"The guilty will be prosecuted," said Mr. Foust, "but the work of the pure food commission has produced a great change. Recently 70 samples of milk were examined in Allegheny and only one sample was found to have formaldehyde in it and three were colored artificially. Of a large number of samples of meat analyzed only three were found to contain chemicals. It is probable that Dr. Warren will order the prosecution of the men who sold the meat and milk."

Is Stabbed During Fight.

In the course of an all-night carousal at the home of John and George Lookovich, in Watkins avenue, Wilmerding, early yesterday morning, Thomas Kausin received several deep stab wounds. All three were arrested by Chief of Police Davenport and were fined $10 and costs. Kausin was weak from loss of blood when found, but his condition is not serious.

STRANGE COINCIDENCE ABOUT DISAPPEARANCE

Somebody Telephones About Missing C. W. O'Brien Before He Disappears. Reward Offered for Information.

C. W. O'Brien, a tobacco advertising man who disappeared from the Commercial hotel in Sixth street last Friday, has not been heard from. His mother, who lives in Cincinnati, is very much worried over his disappearance and fears harm has come to him. She is well to do.

There was a strange coincidence about the vanishing of O'Brien. On last Thursday night all the morning newspapers received a message by telephone asking them to send a reporter to the Commercial hotel, where they would get a "good story" about the disappearance of one of the guests. Reporters were told by the hotel management that they knew nothing of the disappearance of any of the guests. The next morning O'Brien was missing, and it is supposed it was he who sent the telephone message.

C. W. O'BRIEN,
Who has mysteriously disappeared.

O'Brien left behind him a note-book in which he is said to have written that he had nothing to look forward to, having been discharged by the company by which he was employed. A monkey which belongs to him is still a guest at the hotel.

The tobacco company for which O'Brien worked has advertised, offering a reward of $100 for information leading to his whereabouts. He is described as being five feet four inches high, weighing 140 pounds, of dark complexion, smooth face, black eyes and as being about 26 years old.

Junior Order Will Submit Bill to Congress at December Session.

Z. P. Smith, chairman of the national legislative committee of the Junior Order of United Americans, yesterday announced that the order was preparing a stringent bill to be submitted to congress, keeping out undesirable immigrants. The bill will be presented next December. The proposed act will contain provisions increasing the head tax, requiring more severe educational qualifications and enlarging the list of classes to be excluded.

The annual convention of the state council of Pennsylvania will meet in Monongahela today. It is expected that 250 delegates will attend, and many of them arrived yesterday morning. A. H. Leslie, superintendent of the workhouse, will be elected state councillor. He is at present state vice councillor. John Fry and Dr. E. H. Sola of Philadelphia are candidates for the state vice councillorship. Williamsport and Wilkes-Barre want the convention next year.

GREAT BATTLE ON IN PHILADELPHIA

Both Sides Have Named Good Men and Polls Must Decide Question.

BIGELOW TALKS TO QUAKERS

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.

With both tickets practically in the field the fall campaign has started. The Republican county ticket was named Saturday, the same night Mayor Weaver indicated the candidates he wanted nominated by the City party, and this will be attended to at Wednesday's convention. There is little doubt but what the Democratic convention Wednesday night will indorse the City party ticket, and as the Lincoln party expects to do likewise, Mayor Weaver's selections will be strong on "reform" indorsements, whether or not it polls a winning majority.

Col. W. R. Andrews, Republican state chairman, today said some very nice thing concerning the Philadelphia regular Republican ticket.

The men selected by the Union league of the Republican city committee conferees, said the state chairman, are unassailable except upon the ground that they are said have been lifelong Republicans. They are of the type of citizenship demanded by those who are managing the so-called Lincoln party and its local auxiliary the City party.

The issue now becomes one of the party, not the individual. Opposition to the local Republican ticket is opposition to the Republican party. Those who do not support it must consider themselves outside party lines and as a part of the common party, 'Reform within the party' was demanded and it has been acceded to. If those who opposed the original ticket were sincere in their statements they must rally in support of the new one. Should they not do so then they convict themselves of being actuated by ulterior or selfish motives instead of real reform within the party.

Attorneys George S. Graham and A. S. L. Shields have been retained by the investigating committee of select councils, which is authorized to probe Mayor Weaver's administration. It is expected that the hearings will start some time this week. They will continue for a month or more.

It was announced at today's meeting of the Republican city committee that nearly 15,000 bona fide voters had reported their failure to register. Most of them will vote, being vouched for by neighbors. This reduces to about 20,000 voters the decrease shown by the September over the May assessment.

Director E. M. Bigelow was here today on his way to New York.

It's going to be a hard fight in Pittsburgh this fall, he said, but the Citizens ticket will be elected.

It will require all of the "Molly Maguire" passwords for one to be admitted to the City party convention Wednesday, and this does not exempt the delegates being elected at tonight's primaries. They must turn in their credentials tomorrow morning, signing a release, get their tickets Wednesday morning, sign again, so that the signature may be compared. Even though the signatures correspond they will not be admitted if their loyalty is doubted, in which case the committee of seventy has power to substitute.

DEATH OF WELL-KNOWN SCIENTIST AND SOLDIER

General Wistar Passes Away After a Short Illness—Prominent in Railroad Circles.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—Gen. Isaac J. Wistar of this city, philanthropist and scientist, died today at his summer home in Claymont, Del., after an illness of one day. He was 74 years old. Gen. Gen. Wistar was born in Philadelphia and was educated at Westtown Friends' school and Haverford college. He received the degree of doctor of science from the University of Pennsylvania. He entered the military service during the civil war and was brigadier general of volunteers from 1862 to 1865.

He was one time president of the state board of charities of Pennsylvania, president of the American Philosophical society, president of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, and inspector of the state penitentiary here. In 1892 he founded the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology of the University of Pennsylvania with an endowment of $30,000 a year, and was elected secretary of the institution.

FIND HOUSE OF TRAGEDY.

Salt Lake Police Discover Dying, Dead and Insane Men in Chinese Opium Joint.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 18.—A Chinese woman today called the police to a building at No. 36 Plum alley, where, on the third floor, the officers found a dead Chinese sitting bolt upright on a cot while in the same room another Chinese, who appeared to be insane, had kindled a fire on the floor, apparently in an attempt to destroy the building.

On the floor below the police found "Eddie" Merode, a white man, apparently dying of opium poisoning. Merode is an acrobat, who recently has been giving exhibitions in vaudeville houses. His money, watch and chain were missing. His recovery is doubtful.

GREEN'S GUILTY LOOK PROVES HIS UNDOING

The inability of James Green, a McKeesport negro, to look innocent at a critical juncture resulted yesterday in his being sent to the workhouse for 90 days. While Yee Kee was working in the rear room of his laundry in Wilmerding Green walked into the front room and rifled the money drawer. He emerged just as Officer William McKenzie was passing. McKenzie thought the man looked guilty and, seizing him by the arm, asked what he was doing in the laundry. The negro started a faltering explanation when Yee Kee appeared and discovered that all the money had been taken from the drawer. McKenzie searched Green and found the cash.

ARMY OF 68,960 BATHERS IN THE TWO LOCAL RIVERS

Police Records Demonstrate the Popularity of Swimming as a Summer Sport—Lives of 73 Persons Saved by Guards.

An army of 68,960 persons bathed in the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, at the five stations established by the police during the season which began June 20 and closed last Friday, September 15. Police officers were detailed as lifeguards at these stations, and besides protecting this number of bathers they claim to have rescued 73 persons from drowning.

These figures were obtained yesterday from a report made to Director Moore by the officers who acted as lifeguards. The policemen performing this service were instructed to make daily an estimate of the number of bathers at each station, also to keep a record of those rescued and those drowned. Three drownings were reported at the stations, and two of these occurred when the officers were absent from the stations. A boy was drowned at the foot of Main street, South Side, when the policeman acting as lifeguard was absent.

A man was drowned near Lock No. 1, but the police claims the man swam down the river 200 yards from the station and became exhausted. He made an effort to reach the swimmer, but was too late. A boy was drowned in the Allegheny river near Forty-third street in the absence of the officer from the station. The officers were equipped with skiffs, life preservers and pike poles, which were all stored away yesterday in the old police gymnasium until next summer.

Director Moore says the system of police keeping watch over the bathers has proved a success and ought to be continued next summer. The average daily attendance at the five stations was 793 for 87 days.

Officers Freeborn and Cavaneugh, in charge of the station at South Twenty-fourth street, reported the total number of bathers there as 15,255, an average of 175 each day, and that 20 were rescued from drowning. Officers Gardner and White, at South First street, reported 10,080 bathers, an average of 120 a day, and that 12 were rescued. Officers Murray and Ohlinger, at South Main street, reported 14,050 bathers, an average of 150 a day, and 14 rescued. Officers Eckert and Manion, at Lock No. 1, reported 17,500 bathers, an average of 201 a day, and 17 rescued. Officers Cooper and Cameron, at Forty-third street, reported 6,625, an average of 75 a day, and 10 rescued.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWARK, O., Sept. 18.—The Pittsburgh Nationals narrowly escaped defeat here today at the hands of the fast Idlewilde team of this city. Brain scoring the winning run in the ninth on his own two-base hit and a sacrifice by Ritchey, which put him on third, whence he scored on a long fly by Gibson to left field. Kinsella struck out, ending the game.

Except in the sixth, Moore had the Pirates guessing, and except for an error by Snodgrass, the Newark first baseman, who fumbled Ganley's grounder, they would probably have not scored in this inning, as five hits followed.

Kinsella, the Three-I league Pittsburgh recruit, did slab duty for Clarke's bunch and was hit almost at will, 12 hits being secured off his delivery. But for stupid base running on the part of the locals, they would have scored several more runs.

A forward running catch by Schweitzer and a one-hand catch of a line drive by Koch, both with men on bases, were the fielding features. Attendance 1,000. Score:

The Pittsburgh team will play at Youngstown tomorrow, weather permitting. Secretary Locke received the following telegram tonight from Chairman Herrmann of the national commission: "You may go ahead and play at Youngstown tomorrow. Have received notice that fine has been paid and draft for same mailed."

A telephone message from Manager Hogan of the Youngstown team confirmed this report and the Pirates left for Youngstown tonight in a special car which was chartered for their use. Peitz will be the catcher tomorrow and one of the regular pitchers will officiate.

The Pirates will arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow night and on Wednesday will play at Braddock.

Flannagan, the new outfielder, made good again today. The veterans of the team think that he resembles Patsy Donovan in style, but say he hits the ball harder and covers more ground in the outfield.

YOUNGTOWN, O., Sept. 18.—The Ohio Works team will pay a fine of $500 for playing Billy Phyle at third after that team went under National league protection. The fine was imposed today and at first it was said that it would not be paid. This afternoon the fine was guaranteed and the team will meet Pittsburgh here tomorrow. The Cincinnati team, which played here two weeks ago, was also fined $500 for playing with a team which had an "ineligible" man on it. Phyle will be seen in the game no more this season.

Boston Wins a Double-Header.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—Boston won two games from Brooklyn here today, the first by 9 to 2 and the second, which was called on account of darkness in the eighth inning, by 4 to 1. Strickett was hit hard in both the earlier contest. Dolan batted in all the runs the home team made in the second game. Attendance, 1,825. Scores:

FAST TIME MADE BY LOCAL NAGS

Frank Wilson Reels Off Heats in 2:08 1-4, 2:08 and 2:09 on the Island.

LADY MAY CHASES HIM

The races at Brunots island yesterday, postponed from Saturday, were the fastest of the season, excepting the inter-city cards. Although only a small crowd was present, every entry was driven to win. Three horses lowered their marks, and, although no records were broken, fast time was made in several races. Frank Wilson for the first time won the free-for-all pace in a remarkably fast race, the heats being in 2:08¾, 2:08 and 2:09. The free-for-all trot, taken by Robin C., went two heats in 2:10 flat and 2:11¼. Many of the horses at the island had been taken away to compete in professional events, and, owing to the postponement of the races on Saturday, many horses were drawn yesterday, their owners being unable to drive.

The first race of the day, the 2:25 trot, had only two starters, three horses being drawn. William H., Ralph Weaver's gray gelding, won this race, his first victory of the season, in slow time.

The second race, the 2:17 trot, went three heats, was hotly contested, and was won by Ramona, H. Buhl's mare, who lowered her record from 2:16¼ to 2:16¼. The fast heat was the last one, Ramona having been second heat to Insulator, R. H. Bogg's new speed merchant. The second heat was closely contested by Ramona, although she had a bad break. The third heat was also close, Insulator finishing about half a length behind Ramona.

The free-for-all trot, with three starters, Uncle William being withdrawn, went two heats in fast time. Louise Mac and Mary D. were too fond of breaking, and split up second place between them. The time was fast all the way, and Bogg's gelding, which had the honor of beating Dr. Strong, won the heats handily, keeping on a trot all the way.

The 2:15 pace was won by Redwood in three heats in fast time. Gertrude, Henry Buhl's black mare, lowered her mark from 2:16¼ by winning the first heat 2:15 flat. In the second heat Gertrude broke early and Redwood, Kitty L. and Ozar fought for the lead through the back stretch, all horses being closely bunched. Redwood broke loose from the bunch and led at the three-quarters. Gertrude closed up an enormous gap and showed great speed into the home stretch, where she bobbled and then made a bad break, falling back to fourth place. The time was fast, 2:13¼. Kitty L., driven by O. H. Hall, the third heat went to the lead, with Redwood second, at the quarter pole. The two leaders made a pretty race in the back stretch, and Redwood bobbled, but caught handily and shot out to the lead after the half. Kitty L. slowed up and Redwood won the heat and race easily.

The free-for-all pace was the star event of the day. Lady May and Frank Wilson each got a heat, and then Wilson, handled by Chapman, secured the third heat and race in fast time. All heats were fast. In the first heat Lady May took the lead and Frank Wilson trailed in to the pole behind Avey's mare. They continued in this position until approaching the last quarter, when Chapman started to shake Wilson. From the last quarter Bennett's gelding paced a great race and passed Lady May, winning by half a length. Terrace Queen was about one and one-half lengths behind at the wire. Lady May led off again in the next heat, Wilson's driver, Chapman, again playing a waiting game. Terrace Queen dropped back of Lady May, and then Chapman started coming to Lady May in the back stretch. He started too soon, for after passing Lady May he again fell back. Frank Wilson again came at the three-quarters, but the distance to Lady May was too far and in the stretch he broke, Lady May taking the heat and Wilson taking third place. Lady May, in the third heat, took the lead, while Chapman again trailed in second place. Chapman rated his horse perfectly in this heat and just before turning the three-quarter pole he came up and passed Lady May, winning handily in a fast drive down the stretch. The half in the second mile was made in 1:03.

The 2:18 trot, the last race on the card, had but two entries, Mary B. and Raymond being drawn. Westview, driven by J. D. Callery, won the race in two heats, lowering his mark from 2:18¼ to 2:17¾, and then to 2:17 flat.

In the free-for-all pace J. Chapman drove Frank Wilson below his mark. Wilson's record was 2:09, which he equaled in the third heat and beat in the first heat, 2:08¾.

WORLD'S AUTO RECORDS GO DOWN AT SYRACUSE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Nearly 6,000 persons saw the automobile races at the state fair track today under the auspices of the Automobile club of Syracuse. Weather and track conditions were perfect.

In the five-mile national championship race, participated in by Guy Vaughn, Dan Wurgis and M. T. Bernin, the heavy machine driven by Bernin at the rate of a mile in 56 seconds skidded while rounding the lower turn of the track and the rear wheels smashed into a fence. Bernin was cut about the temple, but not seriously hurt.

Three world's records went by the board. G. H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N. Y., breaking the motor cycle one and two-mile marks, flying start, in sensational fashion, and Dan Wurgis, in his 30-horse power Richbird, clipping a fifth of a second from the world's record for mile record trials, hitherto held by M. T. Bernin.

In addition to the other fast work of the afternoon Barney Oldfield, in a five-mile exhibition, made the best time for the distance over a circular track that has been made this season, 4:38 2-5.

NO FIRST HAND NEWS FOR THE SPORTY BOYS

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(Special.)—For the first time in more than a year the pool rooms of New York city and those all over the country were without detailed first-hand information today of the running of races on a metropolitan track. For the first time in their history this handicap promised to be permanent.

With a sweep that left absolutely no chance for transmitting descriptions of races while they were being run, the Western Union Telegraph Company shut off the pool room direct correspondence at the Gravesend track and accepted only regular messages in the routine way. As a result the pool room centers of this city received advance information only of weights, jockeys and scratches at Gravesend, and after each race was decided, received a message telling the result.

WIGGS BELONGS TO DETROIT CLUB

Chairman Hermann Says Brooklyn Is Not Deserving of Crack Pitcher's Services.

SCORES "CHEAP" MANAGERS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18.—James Wiggs of the Detroit American league was formally reinstated as a national agreement player by a decision announced today by the national baseball commission and his temporary connection with the Detroit team is made permanent. Wiggs had called attention to his case, his refusal to sign a Brooklyn contract for the present season at a lower salary than he received when in a minor league having led to his becoming an outlaw player. In announcing the decision, President Herrmann says:

"While there is no rule on the subject, it has been and should be the custom that when a player advances from a minor to a major league, he is to receive a reasonable increase in salary; and, a major league club that does not conform to this custom is not deserving of much recognition at the hands of the commission. In my judgment, the player was forced into his position by the actions of the Brooklyn club.

"As already stated, the application of the player will be granted, but a rule 30 does not make it mandatory upon the chairman to impose a fine, under the circumstances none will be inflicted. The sale of the player from Brooklyn to Minneapolis and from the latter club to Detroit will be approved. The Brooklyn club will be required to pay the New Orleans club the balance of the draft money due them for the player."

The playing of Percy Siverd, a boy of 11, has attracted much attention and he is regarded as a comer. At present he is a student at St. Paul's school, Garden City.

ANOTHER INDIAN CROSSES DIVIDE

Rain-in-the-Face, a Famous Warrior Dies in South Dakota.

WAS NOTED AS A GENERAL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ABERDEEN, S. D., Sept. 18.—Rain-in-the-Face, who was one of the leading chiefs in the Custer massacre, and is said to have personally killed Gen. Custer, died at the Standing Rock reservation, S. D., September 12. Rain-in-the-Face was 62 years old.

Rain-in-the-Face was a pure blooded Sioux and prided himself on this fact. He was one of the most savage fighting generals Sitting Bull ever had under him in his campaigns. As a trouble maker, horse thief and Indian, who would kill on the slightest provocation, Rain-in-the-Face was known throughout the western part of the Dakotas and Southeastern Montana.

He came into great prominence in the early seventies when he was arrested on the charge of murder by Tom Custer, a brother of the famous general. Within three months he had escaped and joined Sitting Bull on the Rosebud and Big Horn rivers. Before escaping from prison he threatened to murder the whole Custer family.

Eighteen months later the Custer massacre, inspired by Rain-in-the-Face, and sustained by aboriginal hatred of the whites, followed. Rain-in-the-Face led the final grand charge on the little knoll above the mountain streams where Custer and his Seventh cavalrymen would not surrender. He directed the braves to kill the horses of the troopers.

In two hours only a handful of Custer's men were left, his brothers were dead, his men were out of ammunition and the last act of the tragedy was at hand. No inrush of the Indians was necessary to destroy the few left. Rain-in-the-Face kept at a distance and picked them off.

MARRON IS BUSY.

Writes Strong Letter to the Governor Soliciting the Appointment of Dachroth as Alderman.

John Marron and the Allegheny federation of churches are working actively for the appointment of Amos Dachroth as the successor of Alderman Wadsworth in the Fourth ward of Allegheny. Marron has written this letter to Gov. S. W. Pennypacker:

Understanding that Amos Dachroth is an applicant for the appointment as an alderman and justice of the peace of the Fourth ward, Allegheny, I take the liberty of writing you in his interest. I knew the fugitive alderman for many years and aided in securing his indictment, and knew that he exercised his office oppressively, dishonestly and corruptly for many years, and I feel that the people of that ward in the appointment of an alderman, deserve a radical difference and improvement in the character of a man who should hold the office. The Fourth ward contains half the tenderloin of Allegheny City, and places where various laws for preserving public order are violated continuously, and a long step toward the removal of these criminal conditions would be the appointment of a man of character in the office of justice, who not only knows these conditions, but whose character and work in the past are a certificate that these conditions will be corrected so far as his official and personal influence can so do.

Amos Dachroth was a member of the Allegheny police force for nine years, much of the time being in the Fourth ward. His knowledge of the increase of crime and the systematic protection of criminals by officials compelled him finally to demand of his official superiors the enforcement of the law in the criminal districts of Allegheny. For this he was suspended from his position as patrolman and immediately laid the information he had obtained before the district attorney of Allegheny county, and, at his advice, aided by John C. Haymaker and myself, who were employed by individuals interested in the betterment of conditions in Allegheny, upward of a hundred bills were found against various law-breakers in Allegheny, and what followed is perhaps familiar to your excellency. Being almost a year since his suspension from the force of Allegheny City, Dachroth has been without any revenue save the contributions of the decent people in Allegheny, and he has labored day and night for the administration of the penal laws of Pennsylvania against official and unofficial crimes in his city, and the people of Allegheny owe to no living man greater credit for the work done and to be done for its moral improvement than to Amos Dachroth, its suspended policeman. His fidelity and zeal in this work have been so remarkable as to give him an envied place in the good opinion of the people of Allegheny, and, believing from your judicial, as well as executive record, that you intend all of your public acts for the benefit of the people, I ask you to do this credit and justice, and give a loyal citizen a merited reward by the appointment of Amos Dachroth to an office in which he will not discredit you or himself.

THE WINNING STROKE
If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.
It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists, and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.

MUSIC, MINSTRELSY AND MELODRAMA IN THE THEATERS

MUSIC MINGLES WITH MELODRAMA

It Is the Light and Mirthful Entertainment That Playhouses Have Most of This Week.

SHOWS, GOOD AND BAD

Belasco—"The Earl and the Girl."

After your average English musical comedy is worked over by American jokesmiths and a few quick-witted American players and comedians get hold of the lines it becomes entertaining. That is the case, and the best case, that can be claimed for "The Earl and the Girl," the English musical comedy that the Shuberts put into the Belasco last night for a two weeks run. One can easily imagine an "Earl and the Girl," original edition, as quite a tame if not actually stupid concoction. But the Shuberts have had some new lines, new songs and new stage effects worked into the piece, and they have put on the programs the names of Eddie Foy, Georgia Caine (charming little actress), Amelia Summerville, Violet Holls, Nellie McCoy, Zelma Rawlston, J. Bernard Dyllyn, Templar Saxe, Will Armstrong and Victor Morley. These things make a different story with "The Earl and the Girl," in fact, these are the things that pleased a big audience at the Belasco. Eddie Foy, his name on the bills is now "Edwin" Foy, comes in for a large share of credit. Foy hasn't got anything like the chance in this affair that he has had in other musical concoctions, but he makes a fine showing in his grotesque way, and sings one song that is typically Foyesque and caught the fancy of the audience. Nellie McCoy's dancing contributes to the acrobatic effectiveness of stage pictures that are always pretty and well dressed. Victor Morley and Georgia Caine sing delightfully a descriptive song that is novel and amusing. Amelia Summerville is statuesque and Bernard Dyllyn aggressively funny as a big American who wants to shoot some one. W. H. Armstrong and Templar Saxe add to the excellence of vocalism that is uniformly good. The big Grenadier drill led by Saxe in the last act is kaleidescopic and caught a storm of applause, as much for the clever work of the five Nosses as for the precision of the nutty chorus drill. Perhaps the chief novelty of "The Earl and the Girl" is the swing accompaniment to a rythmic little sing called "How Would You Like to Spoon With Me?" A half-dozen pretty girls are swung out over the footlights in evergreen swings, and the electric bulbs in the leaves make an effect that is exceedingly novel and pleasing. There is nothing in either the book or the music that either Seymour Hicks or Ivan Caryll need be especially proud of, though it is tuneful in places, and the story makes a thread on which to hang the specialties. In chorus and costuming the piece is handsomely put forward, and the girls are numerous if not always pretty. It is a Casino "show," with Foy and his compatriots as special reasons why you will really enjoy yourself.

Nixon—"Dockstader's Minstrels."

Guffaws and giggles continue to resound through the artistic interior of the Nixon theater while the regular patrons of the house await the appearance of the real "Nixon" attractions. Lew Dockstader's big minstrel aggregation is entertaining there this week and a large audience laughed and applauded last night, and helped sing "Everybody Works but Father." Lew promised to have the best voices in the audience sent to Europe for cultivation and then apparently everybody worked for the prize, the gallery coming in first by a fair margin.

Something novel is always liable to be sprung on a Dockstader audience which distinguishes his productions from the stereotyped minstrel performance and his entrance is always original. Last night a big album of famous minstrel men was shown and the turning of the last leaf showed Dockstader standing against the page from which he stepped to the stage. Another clever feature is a burlesque on New York's sightseeing on "rubberneck" autos. Lew is at the megaphone and his jokes hit Pittsburgh sights and incidents instead of those of New York. A dispute arises and he is chased by the passengers. Lights go out and a moving picture machine takes up the chase with Dockstader leading over country and through woods, to the great enjoyment of the audience. Other features on the program are of the regular order, but of the good minstrel class. Carroll Johnson, Nell O'Brien and John King amuse in their original way, while Harry Ellis, G. F. Weller, Manuel Romain and Matt Keefe divided the generous applause for their excellent singing.

Alvin—Elfie Fay.

Elfie Fay—why, of course she drew a big audience. The attractive soubrette with the wondrously mobile face, who was such a favorite in the Avenue stock burlesque last season, could not have driven away the big army of admirers that turned out to hail her as a star, when she appeared at the Alvin last night heading "The Belle of Avenue A." Everything she did, every time she made a grimace, every time she smiled, the audience went into hysterics. It was Fay night at the Alvin, and of course, Fay was irresistible. She was greeted by a large audience and her company apparently swept the house by storm. It is unfortunate that the same enthusiasm cannot be shown in speaking of "The Belle of Avenue A." It is a musical comedy with a few elements of novelty. It is dressed in ordinary fashion and has little to remommend it beyond the vivacity and industriousness of the star and her co-laborers. They work with an earnestness that is worthy of a better cause. It is a musical comedy with a reminiscent plot, no music that is worthy of speaking of and—but what's the use? All musical comedies are alike, and this one is like all the rest. Albert Clements, Will S. Rising, Frank Hollins, Billy Kent and Marie Dumont do all in their power to save the day. They make the best of their opportunities, but in "The Belle of Avenue A" their opportunities are very much circumscribed. Of the male contingent of the chorus the same cannot be said. In Prince Alberts they seem ill at ease. As for grace, they are out of place. "The Belle of Avenue A" is commonplace.

Empire—"A Dangerous Life."

There always seems to be some excuse for sensational melodrama, and a certain coterie of theater-goers is evidently determined to find this palliation. "A Dangerous Life," which is at the Empire this week, needs the justification of these would-be admirers to lift it above a fearfully tedious performance that might much better be supplanted by something instructive and entertaining. It is no better or worse than dozens of other melodramas abounding in smoke and powder which have appeared on Pittsburgh stages. The play is clean, a strong point in its favor. It is not so disgustingly sensational at all times as to turn the favor of the audience to ridicule, for, in general, it was well received last night. But the thrilling story of a mining life in Arizona and Colorado in which the usual woman's devotion and cunning plotting of a pair of desperados make up the plot of the story is so much like many of its predecessors as to make its interest second rate. Elizabeth Brewer and Frank Moore carry out the villainy of the plot in a very creditable manner, and the work of Dave Caldweil, the loved husband and part owner of the gold mine, is up the average. The play was written and is owned by Gaspard Brothers, whose juggling act with mining tools after the third act is a welcome diversion.

Bijou—"Dangers of Working Girls."

There is an appropriate conjunction between program and play at the Bijou this week. The program cover is printed on yellow paper. Martin Hurley is said to be the author of the melodrama "Dangers of Working Girls." It is the same play that was at the Bijou last season under another title so offensive as to cause The Gazette to refuse to allow the name to appear anywhere in its columns. It is only by suggestion that the play is offensive, but in this particular, and in some of the material used, it is a vivid example of the coarse brutality and ignorance to which melodrama has fallen. In its present form the play is fairly well presented. Julian Noa, who was last season a member of the Avenue stock company, is leading man and plays the role of the reformed cracksman skilfully. Adele Lane also makes a crippled girl seem human and possible. Murry Livingston's Hebrew impersonation is conventional only, and he perpetuates some old comedy, such as stuffing bread into his mouth at a stage meal, that ought to be relegated to the junk heap along with the rest of the cheap caricatures of Jewish character.

The play reeks with stage pictures of the most revolting crimes. It teaches no lesson, arouses no healthy human emotions and tells no story, probable even in a remote way. Praise is due Miss Maggie Le Clair, who has a French stage name, but who sings some Irish songs in a striking and original way. The play all the way through, however, is acted much better than it deserves to be, due no doubt to the stage management of Lawrence Underwood, who will be remembered as a former member of the Grand stock company. Still another Pittsburgher is with the company in the person of J. B. Zimmerman, the manager, who was formerly connected with the Duquesne garden enterprises.

Gayety—Rose Hill English Folly Co.

The Rose Hill [illegible] has been very greatly improved [illegible] its last visit to Pittsburgh. In the form which it presents burlesque at the Gayety, women and little folks find it a very attractive amusement asset, and in yesterday's matinee audience more than half were women. It is not to be supposed that all the lines were recited and neither is it to be supposed that all the "business" of the piece was presented. The character of the audience guages just how far burlesque is to go. The Rose Hills go far enough, goodness knows, but they do not bring in any tinges of vulgarity. The performance is clean and the improvement in the company over that of last season is in its costuming and the strength of the chorus. The Bison City quartet, composed of Jack Barrett, Frank Girard, Tom Humphrey and Al Green, presents a laughable skit, "The Mix-Up on the Links." It is one of the best musical organizations on the burlesque stage. The other members of the olio who won the approval of yesterday's audiences are Miss Idylla Vyner in songs and dances, Miss Blanche Newcombe in a travesty on "Buster Brown," John E. Caine, Harry Evans and Henrietta Wheeler in "A Terrible Night," the Sisters Lane in an acrobatic act, and Hill and Sylvany in trick bicycle stunts. The Van brothers have a pleasant take-off on things oriental, and the burlesque features are good. This happens because the lines are elastic and the performance does not seem to suffer because things are cut out on account of mixed audiences.

Academy—"Miss New York Jr. Co."

The "Miss New York Jr." company appears at the Academy this week in a good little musical comedy, set up in the burlesque style, and the matinee and night audiences appeared well pleased with the performance yesterday. It is called the "King of Kokomo" but for what reason there is no evidence. The Eight Corsallas, a great acrobatic troupe, are the strengthening feature of the performance, and their evolutions kept the audience in continuous applause. Other good specialties were introduced, including the Boston City quartet, the Wiora trio of Hungarian singers and dancers and the Gagnoux jugglers. Of course, the girls were there in such costuming as only the Academy knows, and Billy Allen, as chief funmaker, did much to promote the general hilarity.

Charley Grapewin at Alvin.

"It's Up to You, John Henry," which comes to the Alvin next week, is different from many of the so-called comedies, in that there is a tangible story that threads its way through the entire action of the play and is never lost sight of for a moment. Around this story are entwined many humorous episodes, and the lines are considered the brightest and pithiest George V. Hobart ever wrote. The company presenting "It's Up to You, John Henry," is one of unusual strength, headed by Charles E. Grapewin.

"Babes in Toyland."

At the Nixon theater Hamlin & Mitchell's musical extravaganza, "Babe in Toyland," comes for a week's engagement, beginning next Monday. "Babes in Toyland" is one of the most popular musical plays that comes to Pittsburgh, and next week's engagement will be its third in this city. It was written by Glen MacDonough, who furnished the book and the lyrics, and Victor Herbert, who composed the music, and was produced under the stage direction of Julian Mitchell.

Among the Clubs.

Error in the Ballot.

There was amazement and then consternation yesterday when the ballots for the coming election in the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women reached Pittsburgh. What is regarded by a number of prominent club women as a grave error appears in the little voting slips which are biennially distributed to the clubs which compose the membership of the federation.

"An error imperiling the chances of Pittsburgh winning a place in the directorate of the state organization this year," is how it was described last evening by a woman who has been a constant attendant at the annual meetings of the federation almost since its organization.

In the list of nominations appearing on the ballot slip stands the name of Miss Susanne Beatty, Women's Press club, of Pittsburgh. As a matter of fact Miss Beatty has never been a member of the Womens Press club of Pittsburgh, and was nominated at the meeting of the nominating committee in Harrisburg last May as from the New Era club, Pittsburgh. Mrs. Samuel S. Miller, a member of the New Era club, and last October elected a member of the nominating committee, said last night:

"I placed Miss Suzanne Beatty's name in nomination for election to the board of directors of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women and especially emphasized the fact that she was a member of the New Era club of Pittsburgh, which I wished to be represented in the list of nominations. I will write immediately to Mrs. John Reilly of Fort Hunter, the chairman of the nominating committee, asking how the mistake occurred."

Mrs. Dallas Albert has been secretary of the Women's Press club of Pittsburgh for a number of years and stated last night that Miss Beatty's name had never been proposed for membership in that club.

There was much wire-pulling by telephone all day yesterday after the ballots reached the city and the club women were discussing the possibilities of a political deal being on whereby another well-known and ambitious club woman may pick a plum. Various interesting rumors were circulated and clues are being followed with eagerness by women from different clubs. The ballot reads:

President—Miss Kate Cassatt MacKnight, Twentieth Century club, Pittsburgh.

Vice Presidents—eastern, Mrs. Walter H. Cockran, Woman's club, Media; central, Miss Myra Lloyd Dock, Civic club, Harrisburg; western, Mrs. Ida M. Houghton, Woman's Literary club, Bradford.

Secretary—Miss Mary Knox Garvin, Alumnae Association Girls' High and Normal School, Philadelphia.

Treasurer, Mrs. Wilbur Fisko Litch, Woman's club of Montgomery county, Ardmore.

Directors—To be elected, Mrs. Irvin C. Elder, Afternoon club, Chambersburg; Mrs. W. B. Belzel, Fortnightly club, Carlisle; Miss Jane W. Pressly, Woman's club, Erie; Miss Susanne Beatty, Women's Press club, Pittsburgh.

Directors—Unexpired term, Mrs. Horace Brock, Woman's club, Lebanon; Mrs. Ellis Lewis Campbell, Saturday club, Wayne; Mrs. Wilbur F. Rose, New Century club, Philadelphia; Mrs. Peter M. Speer, Belle Lettres club, Oil City.

The annual meeting of the State Federation will open Tuesday afternoon, October 17, at 2 o'clock, in Cambridge Springs. The first session will be devoted to education and among the topics to be brought forward that afternoon will be manual training, school hygiene and medical inspection, care of truants and delinquents, the school city, vacation schools and playgrounds and other kindred subjects. Food adulteration will be discussed an committees will report on legislation, forestry, the juvenile court, industrial schools and civil service reform. A new feature of the program will be a debate conducted by six well-known club women, the subject being "Pennsylvania ranks first among the states in natural and educational advantages." The biennial election of officers will be held on Thursday morning, October 19. At that same time nine state delegates and as many alternates to the general Federation of Women's clubs meeting next year in Cloud will also be elected. A concert will be given by the Tuesday Musical club of Pittsburgh. The social entertaining of the delegates and visiting club women by the women in the different cities where the federation has met in past years, has been so extensive that the opposite will be noted in the program this year, almost no social features whatever being planned.

Encouraging Library Report.

Mrs. Lucien O. Livingston yesterday reported over 300 children and young people in attendance on one day during the past week at the sub-station of the Carnegie library, which has been established in the Soho Settlement house. The library is becoming more popular each week, but the work of the settlement committee is hampered because of room. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday morning in the settlement house in Fifth avenue and though plans were discussed for fall and winter work the women feel handicapped because of the lack of room, only one floor of the building being used for the settlement work at present. The success of the library department, of which Mrs. Livingston is chairman, is matched by the enthusiasm which is felt in the sewing class. Mrs. James Dick, chairman, which since the school opened, meets on Saturday afternoon instead of Thursday. Again a week the Kindergarten class will be resumed under the direction of Mrs. Dallas Albert, and the choral work will be inaugurated by T. Everett Johnson the first of October. At that time mothers meetings will also be resumed under the care of Mrs. George Porter and Mrs. Jane A. Hall.

BRINGS SUIT FOR $6,000 DAMAGES

Robert C. Hall Plaintiff in an Action Which Grows Out of Purchase of Railroad.

BONDS FIGURE IN THE DEAL

Broker Robert C. Hall yesterday entered suit against the Pittsburgh & Castle Shannon Railroad Company and F. M. Wallace, asking $6,000 damages, the transaction growing out of an effort of Hall to buy the road. Hall alleges that on August 17 he put up three $1,000 bonds of an oil company as a guarantee that he would purchase the capital stock of the railroad company. The negotiations failed subsequently, and he avers that the defendants refuse to return the bonds, although he complied in every particular with his part of the transactions.

The exceptions in the case of Harry Moore against the Chartiers Valley Water Company and others were dismissed by Judge Frazer. The plaintiff had filed the exceptions to the court's ruling in relation to the powers of water companies under the act of 1885, and to "that a proposition for an exchange of stock was a part of the consideration paid for the lease of another company's plant."

Habeas corpus proceedings were begun by George W. Culver against Superintendent Thomas A. McGuigide of the bureau of detectives to secure the release of James H. Broderick. Broderick was arrested early yesterday morning by Detectives William Elmore and Oscar Seifert on a telegram from the police authorities of Washington, D. C., where he is alleged to be wanted on a charge of kidnapping his two children, aged 5 and 7 years. Broderick was recently divorced from his wife, but was permitted to visit his children in Washington. Last Wednesday he is alleged to have brought the children with him to this city. Judge Frazer will hear the arguments on the writ, which has been made returnable at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Several Heavy Sentences.

Judge Macfarlane, in criminal court, imposed several severe sentences. David Dickson was sent 10 years to the penitentiary. He pleaded guilty to criminally assaulting Elizabeth McGruder, aged 14, at McKeesport, July 29.

Howard Hall, the young burglar captured while in the act of robbing Graf & Nieman's jewelry store in Sixth street, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced seven years to the penitentiary. Robert Spiegle was sentenced 18 months to the workhouse. He pleaded no defense to two charges of forgery and two of false pretence. Spiegle was prosecuted by merchants of the hill district, whom he victimized out of small amounts of money.

William Bergman, Edward Bryce, William Huss and J. I. Wagner were acquitted of a charge of larceny brought by W. C. Armstrong. The latter had taken a girl to an amusement park and Bergman danced several times with her and took her home. Armstrong was angry and later in the night, with some friends, met the defendant at Morgan street and Bedford avenue. There was some talk and Bergman and Armstrong took off their coats. One of Bergman's friends took Armstrong's coat, and soon after Armstrong left because his friends did not support his cause. The coat, the defendant said, was left on the street. Armstrong said a dollar and a diamond worth $30 were taken from it. The defendants denied any knowledge of either, but admitted having talked of a settlement to avoid publicity. The jury acquitted them in a few minutes.

Other cases disposed of were: William Rasar, robbery, eight months to the workhouse; John Edwards, larceny, eight months to the workhouse; John Black and John Holmes, burglary, acquitted; Jacob Rice, attempt criminal assault, four months to the workhouse; Margaret Rhine, larceny, 90 days to the workhouse; John Torrence, burglary, one year to the workhouse.

Recommends the Divorce.

The master in the divorce suit of Catherine N. Thompson against Col. Elmer Ellsworth Thompson, in which desertion was charged, filed his report recommending that a decree be granted. Col. Thompson was formerly a well-known oil producer in the Butler county oil fields, but removed to Pittsburgh after meeting with financial reverses. The report shows that the couple were married at the home of the bride at Mercer in April and lived at Butler until 1898, when they removed to Pittsburgh. Mrs. Thompson claims that when they arrived here her husband rented a room in Allegheny for it and without any previous trouble, left her and her small baby without food or money and disappeared. She claims he never contributed towards her support since, but has sent money through another person to support the child. Mrs. Thompson said she last heard of her husband a year ago when he was traveling in the south.

Andrew White filed his answer to the divorce suit of his wife, Elizabeth White. The respondent denies that he subjected his wife to cruel and barbarous treatment, but says it is true that he struck the libellant. White says that on the day he struck his wife he was leaving the house with a friend, when his wife started to call him hard names and struck him with a heavy iron stove shake, and that she was about to strike him the second time when, in endeavoring to defend himself, he struck her in the face.

Says Wife Used a Dipper.

The respondent then avers that on December 5, 1904, the libellant struck him over the left eye with a heavy dipper, cutting him badly and leaving a lasting scar; that she was about to strike him again when he slapped her in the face with his open hand. The respondent also avers that his wife is of a high temper and an unreasonable woman, that she is fond of disputes, provoking them on all occasions. He says she is addicted to profane and offensive language, fond of dances and euchre parties, that she neglected her home and children, coming in at late hours of the morning from these places.

Arthur A. Ellyson filed a suit in divorce against his wife Mary Ellyson, charging her with cruelty. Mary Elizabeth Hampson asks to be divorced from her husband, Charles Hampson on the same ground.

Louis Ginsberg, a grocer of 1715 Center avenue has filed a suit against S. Sniderman, asking for $2,000 damages for defamation of character. Ginsberg alleges that on September 4 last a fire originated in his store which partially consumed most of his stock. The cause of the fire was unknown. Shortly after the fire the plaintiff says that Sniderman, knowing the fire originated from unknown causes, and intending to injure and deprive him of his good name, said: "Mr. Ginsberg could not get rid of his store unless he made a fire," thereby meaning that the plaintiff had set fire to his own store.

John C. Oliver filed a suit against J. W. Ballie to recover $150 back salary due on a contract for preaching. The plaintiff, who is a Presbyterian minister, says that on June 1, 1899, the defendant employed him to preach every other Sunday afternoon for one year from the above date at Samsons Mills, Westmoreland county, Ballie personally agreeing to pay him $200. The plaintiff says that he carried out his part of the agreement, but has only received $50.

W. T. Pyle entered a suit against the Pennsylvania railroad asking damages in $1,000 for being ejected from a train at Shadyside station on July 8 last. Pyle alleges that on this date he went to Union station to purchase a ticket for Swissvale. He waited for 10 minutes at the ticket window to get a ticket, but owing to the crowd of people and the slowness of the ticket seller, he was unable to buy the ticket. He went out and got on the train. When the conductor came around he tendered him 17 cents, the regular fare from Pittsburgh to Swissvale. The conductor refused to accept the money, although the plaintiff explained to him why he was unable to purchase a ticket. The plaintiff says the conductor refused to allow him to ride unless he paid 10 cents additional fare. The plaintiff would not pay the 10 cents and the conductor put him off at Shadyside. Pyle says that he was compelled to walk a great distance to a street car and lost much time and was greatly humiliated by the action of the railroad company.

Edward Whelan entered suit against H. E. Scarborough asking $15,000 damages. The plaintiff says that he was engaged in digging a ditch. A bucket of boiling tar was being hoisted to the top of the building when the rope broke and the hot tar deluged Whelan. He was burned about the arms, back and other parts of the body, and injured so badly that he was in a hospital for six weeks. He claims that he is a confirmed and incurable invalid.

A temporary injunction was granted restraining the Independent Ice and Coal Company from operating a cooler on top of their plant in South Eleventh street, which, it is claimed, allows water to run onto the premises of Stephen F. Krahnak.

Church Troubles Are Aired.

Foreclosure proceedings under a mechanics' lien were begun by G. R. Morrell against Bishop J. Regis Canevin, as trustee for the Slavish Roman Catholic congregation of St. Matheas at Natrona. Morrell claims $7,356 is due him.

The trouble in the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal church produced another suit yesterday. The Rev. Israel S. Lee, the deposed pastor, instituted a suit in trespass against Walter S. Lowry, Page, W. Douse, S. D. Roach, Robert Brady, T. J. Monroe, J. G. Wylie, W. J. Butler and John Mellontree, asking damages in $5,000. He alleges that the defendants collected about his home at 25 Overhill avenue on August 1, broke in and removed all the furniture.

Rosa Markowitz, who conducts a millinery and furnishing goods store at 426 Diamond street, filed a petition in bankruptcy. She gives her debts as $9,468 98 and her assets as $3,210.

Philip Schmidt of Pittsburgh, by his will, divided his estate among his wife and children. Attorney Henry Meyer represented the estate. The grand jury returned the following true bills: False pretense, R. M. Enrich, Albert C. Gibson (5); entering a building, Edward Brown et al, Isaac Weller et al; felonious assault, John Blanco; larceny, Harry Hilson, Gelda Kaufman, William McCann, Louis Redman; felony, Monroe Johnson; keeping a gambling house, David Freedman, Louis Bierman, Samuel Liebig, David March, Isaac Schade; misdemeanor, D. M. Young, Harry Bishop, Ellen Fenkig, Adam Wierowski et al (7); assault and battery, William Jones, Adam Martin, Frank Maher, Joseph Postare.

COMMANDER YOUNG FACES BENNINGTON COURT-MARTIAL

Sittings of Body Appointed to Try Him for Gunboat Disaster Open at Mare Island—Both Sides Working for Points.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MARE ISLAND, CAL., Sept. 18.—The court-martial to try Commander Lucien Young of the United States gunboat Bennington in connection with a fatal boiler explosion on the gunboat at San Diego, July 21, convened today. Commander Young, Judge Gear, defendant's attorney, and the full board were present.

Naval Constructor Holden Evans was in the room, and this gave rise to the question of the exclusion of naval experts. After consulting the naval rules and regulations, Rear Admiral Glass decided that Constructor Evans must retire. The charges and specifications were read, and Commander Young pleaded not guilty to each of the six charges.

Lieut. Yates of the Bennington, called as the first witness, was not present. Ernest E. West, judge advocate, was then called. He deposed that he was custodian of the logs of the Bennington at Washington, D. C. West produced the logs for the last days of the months of November and December, 1904, and said that for the first six months of this year the logs were not filled out under the signature of Commander Lucien Young.

West was dismissed as a witness, and warned by Admiral Glass not to discuss the trial outside the court room. West then resumed his seat as judge advocate.

Ensign Sahn of the Bennington testified that Young was in command of the Bennington from November, 1904, to July 21, 1905, with the exception of a brief suspension at Panama. He said that on July 21 boiler B exploded, being forced aft against the bulkhead between the fore and aft fire rooms. The Bennington's hull books were produced, identified by the witness, and offered in evidence, but, on objection by Judge Gear, Rear Admiral Glass ruled out the books as evidence.

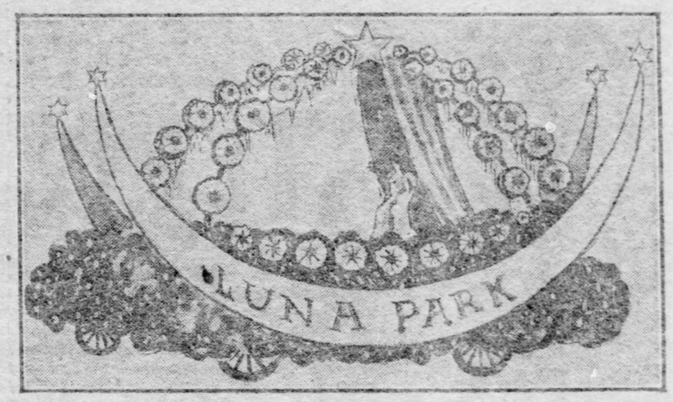
I was hard of hearing for five years, but since using the Balm I can hear much better, and by continuing its use expect to be entirely cured." Mrs. Wm. [illegible]ington, [illegible]ville, Pa.

Pretty Luna Is Tightly Held In Embrace of Merry Carnival Crowd

Pittsburgh will revel this week in the carnival which opened last evening at Luna park and which was heralded through the streets of Pittsburgh and Allegheny yesterday by a parade in which many allegorical floats took part. There were seven floats in the parade, typifying mythological events. These floats were dazzlingly decorated in all the colors of the rainbow and each float had a symbolic meaning, which was apparent to the thousands who witnessed the passing of the procession.



One of the Pretty Floats in Luna Park Carnival Parade.

Thousands turned out last night to participate in the first evening's revelry. In the early part of the evening the thousands who were gathered within the quadrangle at the park seemed somewhat timid, but as the evening grew on became bolder and confetti was thrown in great volumes. Guenther's Pittsburgh band made music for the carnival and rendered an exceptionally attractive program, but interest among the pleasure seekers centered chiefly in the grand ballet which was given on the platform in front of the Infant Incubator hospital under the direction of Arnold Kiralfy, the ballet master. Forty young women, recruited from this city and initiated into the mysteries of the ballet by Mr. Kiralfy, constituted the corps and were led in the intricate dance by Miss Stella Kiralfy.

Many new features were introduced at the park last night. In the Luna park theater was a juvenile vaudeville, which was exceptionally entertaining. The Lecky sisters, diminutive singers and dancers, cousins of Henrietta Crosman, were easily the headliners of the olio. New biograph pictures were introduced in the scenicotorium and Prof. Reynolds also appeared in this theater in sleight of hand and tricks of magic. Altogether Luna park was never so attractive as it appeared last night when the carnival was opened, and that the carnival was a most pronounced success was the verdict unanimously given.

TENDENCY OF PRICES IS STRONGLY UPWARD

Temporary Halts and Reactions Are Soon Overcome by the News Corroborating the General Prosperity—Local Stocks Active.

The advancing tendency of prices, which held through last week, was continued in yesterday's New York stock market. The movement did not persist in full vigor throughout the day, as it was interrupted by occasional halts and reactions, but there was no actual reversal of the course of prices. The day was without special incident in the news, but advices from all quarters were corroborative of the extraordinary prosperity prevailing in all parts of the country and in all lines of business. The money market continued to work closer, but in so gradual a way as to cause little actual disturbance of rates, and offer no effective obstacle to the operation of the factors of strength in the general situation. Those who were operating in the market for higher prices are satisfied apparently so long as the necessary reduction of loans by the clearing house banks to keep their deposits within the legal reserve can be effected by the relieving operations of the trust companies.

The extent to which this process is being carried does not entirely escape criticism, however. The fact is pointed out that, in taking over loans and deposits from the banks, the trust companies make no proportional requirement upon the banks by withdrawal of their cash deposits. The exemption of the trust companies, although doing a banking business, from the 25 per cent legal reserve requirement enforced upon the banks is the explanation of this.

The growing credits put out by the trust companies are therefore accompanied by no corresponding increase in available reserves, and, in fact, are coincident with the rapid shrinkage of the cash reserve of the banks, which is practically the total reserve against both the banks and the trust companies' deposits. Immediate conditions in the money market showed some relaxation, however. Today the sub-treasury's withdrawal from the market was less than in the corresponding period of last week, and New York exchange at Chicago rose to par, indicating the lessened demand upon New York from the interior. At the same time sterling exchange fell away to a lower level and New York banking houses were in active negotiation to secure in the open market in London some part of the coming supplies of gold. These negotiations were not successful as the arrivals of gold from India were reserved against India currency. The price of gold was marked up in the London market, and discounts there and at Berlin hardened an additional fraction. The London market is looking forward to a further rise in the Bank of England rate, and speculative operations there were consequently restrained.

At one time during the day it was definitely reported at the stock exchange that more gold had been secured in London for shipment to New York. The momentary strengthening effect on stocks necessarily gave place to some reselling when the rumor was found to be incorrect.

The unbridled manner of the first spurt in Reading had a disturbing effect on speculation. The movement in Canadian Pacific was regarded as coming from the same sources as that in Reading. Its sympathetic effect on its subsidiary stock—Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie—was aided by the latter's favorable annual report. Call money was not held at the maximum level of Friday, but ruled above last week's average level. Sterling exchange moved up from the low level in the afternoon. The closing tone of stocks was irregular.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,670,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

Crucible Steel preferred and Westinghouse Airbrake were the special features of the local market yesterday, which was the most active day for months. The demand for the Crucible shares was general and urgent. The common, starting unchanged at 12½, went to 12¾. The preferred opened ½ higher at 65 and went to 66½. The last sale was at 66½, and the stock closed with a gain of two points for the day. There were dealings in 955 shares of the common and 2,102 shares of preferred. Westinghouse Airbrake, affected by the favorable report made public yesterday rose two points to 153 on the sale of 110 shares. There was a range of one point in the dealings. This is the highest price for Airbrake for nearly two years. A gain of four points was shown in a five-share transaction in Westinghouse Electric firsts and of 1⅜ in a 15-share deal in the seconds.

Dealings in Philadelphia Company common amounted to 600 shares at 47⅝, an advance of ¼. Peoples Pipage was up ⅛ at 24½. Pittsburgh Coal preferred advanced a full point to 54½. River Coal preferred showed a gain of ¼. The total sales of the day were 6,661 shares of stock and $19,000 bonds. Both of the bonds dealt in—Independent Brewing 6s and P. & A. Telephone 5s—showed fractional advances.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Yesterday's active local market brightened up the Pittsburgh stock exchange greatly, especially during the 15 or 20 minutes in the first hour when the activity was at its height. The demand for Crucible shares came from half a dozen brokers, and in only one or two cases was there any appearance of the making of an artificial market. It was believed that some advance information regarding the figures now being gathered for the annual report had become known to a few persons. It is expected that the report will be a favorable one.

It was the annual report published yesterday which created the higher quotations for Westinghouse Airbrake. The favorable showing could not fail to make an impression.

R. C. Hall sold to Schoyer 45 shares of Pittsburgh Life and Trust at $100, the previous price.

Frederick Diffenderfer of Robinson Brothers was on the floor of the exchange yesterday after his vacation.

W. C. Moreland of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company has been added to the directorate of the industrial National bank.

In the unlisted stocks there were several quotations yesterday. The following stocks were bid for:

St. Paul has developed renewed strength since the publication of its annual report for the 1904-05 fiscal year, showing extraordinary fine financial results—in fact a surplus over charges and additions to property equal to 11 per cent on both classes of stock, now paying 7 per cent each. Rumor continues persistent that when the plans in connection with the rehabilitation and development of the Erie railroad system are fully completed, it will be found that they bear some important relation to the St. Paul. It may safely be said that the final readjustment of the railroad situation in the northwest, while still deferred, is inevitable with time. Those who are looking ahead find reasons of a varied kind for returning to old favorites, whether they be the dominant eastern trunk line systems, the leading southern roads or the transcontinental properties.

Republic Iron and Steel preferred was strong on the suggested plan to pay off accumulated dividends by the issue of convertible bonds, bearing 5 per cent interest. Earnings of the company are now said to be at the rate of $4,000,000 per annum, while preferred dividend requirements are only $1,150,000. It is said that the company has $4,000,000 in cash, which it does not need at present, loaned out at 3 per cent.

The Cambria Steel Company is doing an excellent business and is back to a basis of earnings equal to the prosperous year 1903. The prospects are that when the current fiscal year ending December 31, 1905, is completed the net earnings applicable to dividends will exceed $3,000,000. This belief is warranted by the business of the eight months already run. The corresponding earnings in 1904 were $1,763,658.

The board of directors of the Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula Railroad Company has declared a dividend of 3½ per cent on its preferred stock and a dividend of 3½ per cent on common stock, clear of tax.

BACHELOR JOY IN WILKINSBURG

Dr. Earl P. Gray Arranges for the Erection of Splendid Apartments in Hay Street.

NEW REAL ESTATE FIRM

Wilkinsburg is to have a genuine bachelor apartment house, something altogether new in that attractive suburb and one calculated to insure a "full house" from the time it is completed. It is being erected by Dr. Earl P. Gray on a lot 52x70 feet at the southeast corner of Hay and Rebecca streets and will cost in the neighborhood of at least $20,000. It will be a four-story brick structure with two store rooms on the first floor and bachelor flats above. There will be two and three-room apartments, each provided with a tile bath and will rent for from $25 to $35 per month. The building, for which the excavations are now in progress, will be unique in that it will be the only structure of its kind in Wilkinsburg and in the East End wards. One such building, the Knickerbocker in Allegheny, is doing a good business, as the owners furnish everything from steam heat and electric lights to chamber service. In Wilkinsburg there has been a great demand for flats of this sort the last few years, due chiefly to the fact that there are over 4,000 employes of the Westinghouse works who board the trains at Wilkinsburg every morning, three-fourths of whom are unmarried men.

New Firm in Fourth Avenue.

The Crookston Realty Company is the title of a new concern that has opened offices at 415 Fourth avenue, having purchased the lease and fixtures of John H. Elder, who has occupied the place for a year or more. The members of the new firm are Capt. William Crookston, who has had 12 years experience in the real estate business in this city, first with the old firm of M. F. Hipple & Co., and later with the Union Realty Company, and his son, V. Crookston, who also served a long apprenticeship with the two firms named. Both men have a very large acquaintance and are well posted on realty values and conditions over the city. Capt. Crookston has been out of active business for two years, but A. V. Crookston was a salesman for the Union Realty Company until it was lately bought by the John K. Ewing Company.

The opposition to the mercantile tax is taking a form that bids fair to cause much dissatisfaction among brokers generally and also to lose some brokers considerable business. Exasperated by the seemingly high assessment which was levied against them a few brokers have decided to keep all their sales from public notice and simply report them on public records so far as possible. One firm, which last week claims to have closed deals totaling over $300,000, is taking a lead in this matter, its officials saying that they will not pay the tax levied and mean to keep just as much from the mercantile appraiser's notice as they can. Such a policy looks queer if it seems narrow-minded in such a city as Pittsburgh, where a legitimate business firm is usually glad to get all the publicity it can from the business it does, as it helps it to get it established in the public confidence.

Will Probably Be a 2-Story Addition.

A report was current yesterday that E. H. Myers had commissioned a local architect to prepare plans for a 15-story building to be erected on the site of the Myers packing house in Oliver avenue, just below Wood street. Mr. Myers said yesterday that no such building will be erected and that he has not decided yet what course he will pursue. "If I get my price," said he, "I will sell the property." It is probable, however, that plans will be drawn shortly for a two-story addition to the building and for extensive alterations to make it a modern store building. It is one of the most substantial structures in the downtown district, and could easily carry the weight of a half dozen extra stories, it is said.

W. S. Haynes, president of the Diamond Real Estate Company, let the contract to Stevenson & Adams for building nine four-room houses for E. M. O'Neill at Lydia and Blanche streets, Twenty-third ward.

Architect F. C. Sauer has let the contract to George Kemmitzer for building six double brick and stone houses for John Dimling in Oakland avenue.

Architect Charles W. Bier has let the contract to Galley & Chambers for a cement and plaster residence for M. B. Hargrave, at North Negley avenue and Bryant street, to cost $12,000.

H. C. Foltz of Turtle Creek has the contract from Architect D. S. Platt of Homestead for a four-story brick store and apartment building for R. C. Cunningham, to be built in East Pittsburgh, at a cost of $10,000.

Architect Theodore H. Scott has awarded to R. Lamont & Son the contract for building 12 brick houses for Mrs. Caroline S. Paxton.

The Samuel W. Black Company is receiving many inquiries for the 40 warehouses of the Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse and Transportation Company on the South Side, which will be finished shortly after the first of the year. The fact that Dilworth Brothers & Co. have leased four of the warehouses and that similar wholesale firms are getting located in the big group is causing more large firms to consider the advantages of going across the river, where hauls will be no longer and rents much lower.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IS THROWN FROM HIS HORSE

EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND, Sept. 18.—The greatest muster of Scotchmen under arms since the battle of Flodden Field was reviewed by King Edward here today. Nearly 40,000 Scottish volunteers marched past his majesty. Enormous numbers of visitors from all parts of Scotland and the north of England witnessed the review. Sir Thomas Lipton, who is honorary colonel of the Second Lanarkshire Engineers, was leading his regiment past the king when his horse threw him, and Sir Thomas was kicked in the face. His injuries are not serious.

SUGAR MARKET SHOWS PROMISE OF A DROP

That Factor in Local Markets Grows Weaker, Along With Coffee and Flour.

All lines in the local markets were dull yesterday. Sugar was one of the dullest, and conservative buying of this article would seem advisable, as dealers are anticipating a cut within the next week or 10 days. It might come today. The market is weak and the buying for the canning season having about ended, the chief prop for prices is over. Coffee is not so strong as it was a couple of weeks ago, and flour is in the same sliding state as before.

In the green goods line there was little doing. What changes were effected were in the direction of lower prices. Monday is never a good market day and yesterday was one of the worst the dealers have experienced for some time. There was nothing unnatural about it, however, as trade always drops off heavily about this time, until the farmers from nearby districts get through marketing their products there will be little doing in the way of business along the street. Fruit sales were fair yesterday and the quality continues to show most favorably.

Butter, eggs and cheese are still weak. There was no change in butter yesterday, although the market for it is the weakest of these three.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 6½ cars oats, 3½ cars corn, 32 cars hay, 2 cars straw, 3 cars feed, 2 cars rye. Baltimore & Ohio, 1 car oats, 8 cars hay, 1 car straw. Lake Erie, 1 car corn, 1 car oats, 20 cars hay, 1 car straw, 2 cars rye.

Receipts of oats were very light and the market showed a marked advance. Corn is in better demand. Hay improves some in price. Middlings are being inquired for and the market is stronger.

She applied for assistance on Friday night and told a story of her husband having deserted her several weeks ago and returning to Germany with $1,000, which they had saved. Since then she has been staying temporarily at the home of Mrs. Annie Miller, matron at Central station. She disappeared from the house before daylight yesterday, and it is likely the child will be sent to the city farm at Claremont.

Well Starts With Heavy Flow, but Decline Is Also Rapid

Down in the Goose Creek district, Ritchie county, Brown, Pecor & Campbell opened a little stir last Saturday afternoon when they drilled their No. 4 on the James Shaylin farm into the top of the salt sand and the well began to flow at the rate of 15 barrels an hour. It held up for only a few hours at that pace and then declined, and is estimated to be good for 50 or 75 barrels a day. Other wells in that vicinity are light as compared with the No. 4 gusher. In the Cairo district the Stewart Oil Company's No. 2 on the Hall is still holding up at 100 barrels a day. In the Ellsworth district, Wirt county, Hickman & Whan have drilled their No. 25 on the A. R. Morrow farm into the second Grow Run sand and have a show for a 15-barrel pumper. In the same district the East & West Oil and Gas Company has drilled No. 22 on the Frank Reed farm to the top of the sand and is rushing.

In the St. Marys district, Pleasants county, E. L. Baldwin & Co. have drilled a test on the R. F. Stanford farm into the Keener sand and have a producer good for 75 barrels a day from that level. In the Silver Run district, Wood county, Lawrence Stephens has completed and drilled their No. 3 on the C. J. Locker farm into the Macksburg sand and have a show for a 25-barrel producer at a depth of 1,720 feet. In the same district D. C. Davis has completed his No. 10 on the J. B. Henderson farm and has a five-barrel pumper on the same belt. In the Ellenboro district, Pierce Brothers & Co. have drilled their test on the Allen Holden farm through the Big Injun and have a duster. The South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 5 on the M. H. Flower farm through the Cow Run sand and have a duster. In the same district the West Virginia Drilling Company has completed No. 2 on the C. P. Barker farm and has a light pumper in the Mavon sand. The advance in the market is expected to bring some activity to the shallow sand districts. In the Wallace district, Harrison county, the South Penn Oil Company has completed its second test on the S. H. White farm and has a 75-barrel pumper. The well produced 65 barrels the first 48 hours after it was drilled into the pay. In the Fallen Timber Run district, Wetzel county, the Parker & Edwards Oil Company's No. 1 on the D. B. Fisher farm is still producing 125 barrels a day.

On French creek, Jefferson district, Pleasants county, a local company is starting a test on the S. F. Dotson farm. On the same stream and in the same district the Dual State Oil Company has the rig completed for a test on the John Shawecker farm. On Middle Island creek, Union district, Bole & Zahrlser have drilled No. 2 on the J. J. Canning farm through the Big Lime and sand and found no oil or gas. In the same district Miles & Co. are drilling a test on the C. L. Morgan farm.

Operators on the Ohio side have been rewarded with some good strikes in the Big Lime and Keener sand districts, northwest of Woodsfield, Monroe county. A mile west of developments, the Imperial Oil and Gas Company has made a find that looks like a new pool. When this company drilled its test on the Samuel Eggert farm into the top of the Keener a strong gas pressure was encountered, and it was thought that would be the status. However, they decided to drill it deeper, and a pay was encountered and the well is now good for 5 barrels a day natural. The Imperial Oil Company holds leases on 500 acres in that locality and has made three new locations. In the same district the Traders' Oil Company and others have drilled their No. 4 on the Henry Wittenbrook farm into the Big Lime, and the well is flowing at the rate of 150 barrels a day. On the Woodfield Water Company's property Wm. O. Bridle & Co. have drilled a test to the Second Dee and have a show for a 125-barrel producer in the same formation.

The Traders' Oil Company gave its No. 7 on the Henry Wittenbrook farm a five-quarter shot and the well responded by producing 200 barrels the ensuing 24 hours. Goldstein & Johnson drilled their No. 10 on the Southall No. 6 farm through the Keener and gave it a duster. The House Farm Oil Company has completed its No. 6 on the House heirs' farm through the Big Lime and has a 40-barrel pumper. In the Macksburg field, Washington county, Lawrence Stephens has completed a test on the Joseph Dixon farm and has a 15-barrel pumper in the 800-foot sand. In the same district Wallace Augustus has completed No. 10 on the J. B. Henderson farm and has a five-barrel pumper on the same belt. In the Ryan Run district, Pleasants county, F. D. Kerr & Co. have drilled their test on the Allen Holden farm through the Big Injun and have a duster. The South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 5 on the M. H. Flower farm through the Cow Run sand and have a duster. In the same district the West Virginia Drilling Company has completed No. 2 on the C. P. Barker farm and has a light pumper in the Mavon sand. The advance in the market is expected to bring some activity to the shallow sand districts. In the Wallace district, Harrison county, the South Penn Oil Company has completed its second test on the S. H. White farm and has a 75-barrel pumper. The well produced 65 barrels the first 48 hours after it was drilled into the pay. In the Fallen Timber Run district, Wetzel county, the Parker & Edwards Oil Company's No. 1 on the D. B. Fisher farm is still producing 125 barrels a day.

On French creek, Jefferson district, Pleasants county, a local company is starting a test on the S. F. Dotson farm. On the same stream and in the same district the Dual State Oil Company has the rig completed for a test on the John Shawecker farm. On Middle Island creek, Union district, Bole & Zahrlser have drilled No. 2 on the J. J. Canning farm through the Big Lime and sand and found no oil or gas. In the same district Miles & Co. are drilling a test on the C. L. Morgan farm.

Operators on the Ohio side have been rewarded with some good strikes in the Big Lime and Keener sand districts, northwest of Woodsfield, Monroe county. A mile west of developments, the Imperial Oil and Gas Company has made a find that looks like a new pool. When this company drilled its test on the Samuel Eggert farm into the top of the Keener a strong gas pressure was encountered, and it was thought that would be the status. However, they decided to drill it deeper, and a pay was encountered and the well is now good for 5 barrels a day natural. The Imperial Oil Company holds leases on 500 acres in that locality and has made three new locations. In the same district the Traders' Oil Company and others have drilled their No. 4 on the Henry Wittenbrook farm into the Big Lime, and the well is flowing at the rate of 150 barrels a day. On the Woodfield Water Company's property Wm. O. Bridle & Co. have drilled a test to the Second Dee and have a show for a 125-barrel producer in the same formation.

The Traders' Oil Company gave its No. 7 on the Henry Wittenbrook farm a five-quarter shot and the well responded by producing 200 barrels the ensuing 24 hours. Goldstein & Johnson drilled their No. 10 on the Southall No. 6 farm through the Keener and gave it a duster. The House Farm Oil Company has completed its No. 6 on the House heirs' farm through the Big Lime and has a 40-bar

MOTOR CARS FOR "LITTLE GIANT"

Supervisors May Soon Have Better Facilities—Coast Line to Invade Pittsburgh.

B. & O. IS BREAKING RECORD

It is probable that motor cars will be installed on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad in the near future for the use of the road supervisors in making their daily trips over the trackage. E. F. Wendt, assistant engineer of the Lake Erie, spent last week at Buffalo and New York, and while he was attending to business matters at the latter city he was incidentally taken over the Long Island's railroad lines by officers of that road. While this trip was mainly for an inspection of the electric service the Long Island has recently installed, Mr. Wendt watched other important phases of railroading, including the motor cars in use there.

"The motor car for the use of supervisors in their inspections of the lines daily are an excellent part of the maintenance department and add greatly in keeping things in good condition for operations," said Mr. Wendt yesterday. "I had the pleasure of taking a ride a number of miles, in fact, over one of the Long Island's divisions, on one of these cars, and at the rate of 30 miles an hour right in the open, too. We overtook some of the suburban accommodation trains and were delayed by such trains several times. The cars are light and easily handled and, aside from their use by the road supervisors, they form an excellent method of inspection for the other officers of the maintenance and operating departments.

"Will we have them on the Lake Erie? Yes, I think they will come here eventually, but I do not know how soon. They will be an addition to the equipment of the road that will improve the conditions for work and operations. Some of our trains might interfere, as for instance, our suburban trains on the main line north. But the Long Island operates a large number of accommodation or suburban trains and is using the motor cars to good advantage.

"I had the pleasure of riding on one of the Long Island's electric trains and of examining the system. This was not with any view to an installation of electric power on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie by any means, however, it was just occasioned by my being in conference with one of the Long Island's officers, who is a member of the committee on records, reports and accounts of the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way association, of which committee I am chairman. The Long Island has a good electric roadway and operating system. With the development of this system by the Long Island and the development of the electric motive power on the New York Central lines has come a change in passenger train operations that may be very far-reaching in the near future."

Will Represent Atlantic Coast Line.

Pittsburgh is to be represented more strongly the coming winter than ever before by the Atlantic Coast Line railway's passenger department. This representation is made because of the big amount of business from Pittsburgh to Florida each winter and because of the increasing traffic from here to Cuba for a winter sojourn of a couple of weeks or as many months. A. W. Pittot, who has been traffic agent of the Atlantic Coast Line at Havana, has been transferred to the territory east of and including Pittsburgh, and he will make frequent trips here during the fall, winter and spring. His headquarters will be at Philadelphia. He has spent a couple of days here looking over the territory and becoming acquainted with the traffic men of the various lines. The business to Cuba will be carried over the Atlantic Coast Line road from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington to Tampa, Fla., from which city to Havana it will be handled by the Peninsula and Occidental Steamship Company.

G. L. Sprague, traveling passenger agent of the Atlantic Coast Line railway, with headquarters in Cincinnati, will care for the traffic to the south from the territory west of Pittsburgh during the winter, as usual. Through the summer he travels through this territory for the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company. He is possibly more distinctly an all-round resort man than any other passenger agent in the country, taking people north in the summer and south in the winter.

Will Could Evacuate Pittsburgh?

A railroad man of prominence and in touch with movements along the line of the Gould-Ramsey fight for the control of the Wabash and for the building of a line from here to West Virginia, said yesterday that the least surprise of all out of the struggle that is on would be the evacuation of Pittsburgh by the Gould interests. He said that, while the Pennsylvania officers have said that road does not need the Wabash properties, either east or west of Toledo, that does not say the Pennsylvania system might not have an eye to securing the lines east of Toledo, at least. In connection with those lines the Pennsylvania could with small expense arrange for the operation of the suburban trains of the Panhandle and the Monongahela division into the Wabash station, while the through trains could be operated into the Union station as now, or could be operated by way of the present Wabash bridge and the Duquesne elevated roadway to the Union station. This would permit giving up the tunnel and avoid the necessity for eliminating the grade crossing at Second avenue. The railroad officer said he thinks Joseph Ramsey will have a better showing in the fight with George Gould than even intimate friends of Mr. Ramsey anticipate. He spoke of the Pennsylvania as securing the Wabash lines east of Toledo independently of the Ramsey movement. Mr. Ramsey and the Pennsylvania officers have denied any association of interest.

"Charley" Clarke Is a Visitor.

Charles W. Clarke, general manager of the Erie Despatch of Chicago, spent yesterday here shaking hands with his friends and conferring with General Agent D. L. Wells, the new Erie man for this territory. Mr. Clarke himself was general agent for the Erie here for a number of years, and is well-known to all the shippers and railroad traffic men. Among those most happy to see him were the employes of the Erie office, for to them he will long be known as "Daddy," that appreciative title having been given him, not because of his age, for he is below the prime of his life, but simply because he took a fatherly interest in the men who worked under him. Mr. Clarke says that the Erie Despatch is rapidly extending its usefulness and operations.

All That B. & O. Can Handle.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is having all the freight that it can handle at the terminal freight stations in Pittsburgh, but even with this, not a single pound of freight is being turned away. The force has had to be increased, and those who are working are putting in extra "licks" to get the freight along in good shape. There is no delay experienced because of the traffic being heavier than was ever known. There is a lack of space, however, for handling the freight, and the company will recognize the need for larger quarters in their building of a new terminal here next year. The freight, both fast and slow, is moving along in splendid shape over the whole system.

The same condition applies at the Pennsylvania freight houses, where the traffic is beyond all former years. The terminal movements of the Pennsylvania for September will be ahead of former years, and there is slight difficulty found in caring for the freight because of a lack of cars. Up to yesterday this shortage was confined principally to the coal and box cars on the different roads, but yesterday it was said that the coke cars will be far too short to handle the coke tonnage this week. This was said to be true of all of the coke-handling roads.

Railroad Notes.

D. F. Hurd has had his title here as representative of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Lake Erie & Western and others roads of the New York Central lines system changed from commercial agent to general agent. This is a recognition of both Mr. Hurd and the Pittsburgh office that have long been deserving. Mr. Hurd is president of the Traffic club of Pittsburgh.

C. B. Otey, superintendent of the Monongahela railroad, spent Sunday with his family at his home in Uniontown. Eventually he will remove his home to Brownsville. He says he likes his new road and is finding plenty to occupy his attention in the operations of the Klondike district lines, on which the traffic is growing rapidly.

Joseph W. Dickson, conductor of the Baltimore & Ohio, has returned to duty after a vacation with his family at Scalp Level, where he spent two weeks painting and fishing.

Harry C. McKelvey, stenographer to Chief Clerk O. C. Castle of the Pittsburgh division's operating department of the Baltimore & Ohio, has returned from an outing in Colorado, having ridden over "Dave" MacWatters' "Short Line" of cowboy fame.

It is probable that Pittsburgh will not be represented at the coming annual meeting of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents at the City of Mexico. The Pittsburgh members are too busy to lose the time required for the long trip.

E. M. Work, gateman at the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie station, returned to duty yesterday from a vacation spent at his boyhood home at Duncannon, Pa., which he had not visited in 43 years. He is one of the veterans of the Lake Erie, having started with that road 38 years ago, or when it was only three years old.

The regular weekly staff meeting of the officers of the Wabash lines east of Toledo will be held at the headquarters here today.

KIRBY GETS HIS WAY WITH HAYS

Mayor Denies He Has Assigned Moke to the Penn Avenue District.

KANE MAY BE TRANSFERRED

"I have not assigned Moke to the Penn avenue station and I don't know yet what I will do. Kirby will preside at central station for a few days because Moke's vacation is not over," said Mayor Hays yesterday when he was asked if Police Magistrate Moke's statement was true that he would hereafter preside at No. 3 station, Penn avenue and Twenty-sixth street.

Moke yesterday morning caused a scene at Central station by calling on Magistrate James J. Kirby and notifying Kirby that he, Moke, had been transferred at his own request to the Penn avenue station in Kirby's district. This announcement riled Kirby and he told Moke in emphatic language that he would not "stand" for Moke taking his place in Penn avenue and "make monkeys" of his friends.

"I won't stand for it and that's all there is about it," said Kirby. "That is my regular place and I will have it back. I don't want to stay here any longer than I have to and I will try to get away tomorrow if Mayor Hays will allow it. There is one thing sure, however. If I am compelled to stay here Ed Wilt must get out."

Kirby Is Not for Wilt.

Wilt is the clerk at the central station and has been too officious to suit Kirby. Wilt generally had his own way when Moke was at central station, but Kirby changed the order of things when Moke left on his vacation and Kirby took charge.

Magistrate Moke said yesterday that he had asked Mayor Hays to transfer him from central station because he was not giving satisfaction there.

"Some people were not satisfied with the way I was conducting the business at central station and I felt it would be better for me to go to some other station house. It was for this reason that I requested the mayor to make the change and he said I would go there."

After the strong kick by Kirby the mayor's denial that he had assigned Moke to the Penn avenue district shows pretty conclusively that Kirby will have his way in this matter, as he had in others. Kirby is rated as strong politically in the Penn avenue district and this reputation has given him a "pull" with the administration, as he demonstrated when he was arrested a few months ago for engaging in a brawl with a councilman and a city employe and the extent of his punishment was 30 days' suspension from duty. The mayor at the time expressed regret that he had to punish Kirby at all.

Kane May Be Shifted.

Moke is known as a rank failure at central station, and even the mayor has been convinced that it would be bad policy to put him back there. For this reason he has agreed to transfer Moke.

With Kirby demanding that he be returned to his own district it is stated that neither Moke nor Kirby will remain at central station, but that Kirby will go back to the Penn avenue station and that Moke will be transferred to the Lawrenceville station. Magistrate James F. Kane is now officiating at No. 5 station in Lawrenceville, and he will be transferred to central station, so the report goes. Magistrate Kane is said to be the best fitted of the five magistrates to preside at Central station because he is credited with aiming to follow the law in his decisions, which have failed to arouse the dissatisfaction caused by other magistrates.

HERBERT AT EXPOSITION.

Popular Conductor and His Orchestra Delights Two Large Audiences at Big Point Show.

Victor Herbert's appearance at the Exposition proved the magnet which drew an exceptionally large crowd there last night. Long before the concert was well under way standing room was at a premium. The afternoon crowd was also much larger than is usually the case, and it was noticeable that a very great many were among the prominent music lovers of the city. Herbert's orchestra this season fully sustains the high standard set by the popular conductor-composer long ago. Herbert carries no soloists this year, but apparently he does not need one, so great is the popularity of himself and his music. This latter he sprinkles through his program in a manner which is highly pleasing.

The presence of the Pittsburgh symphony here every winter has done much toward educating Pittsburghers to a proper appreciation of the musical classics, but a dash of the Herbert melody at the proper period has an uplifting tendency found in the works of few other composers. Yesterday and last night Herbert served gems from his new opera, "It Happened in Nordland," such as "Bandana Land," "Knot of Blue," "Absinthe Frappe" and "Al Fresco," all of which were enthusiastically received. The program for this afternoon is as follows:

2:00 P. M.

March, from "It Happened in Nordland" ..... Herbert
Overture, "Masaniello" ..... Auber
Invitation to the Dance ..... Weber
(a) "Sous le Balcon" ..... Lacombe
(b) "La Serenata" (orchestra by Victor Herbert) ..... Tosti
Selection from the comic opera, "Babette" ..... Herbert

4:00 P. M.

March of the Bojares ..... Halvorsen
Overture, "Mignon" ..... Thomas
Badinage ..... Herbert
Waltz, "Village Swallows" ..... Strauss
Grand Fantasie on Scotch Airs ..... Godfrey

OVERRULES MUSTACHE.

Alderman Holds Leonard Diethrie for Court Extortion.

Leonard Diethrie was unable to satisfactorily prove that he did not have a mustache on the evening of July 23 and Alderman McMasters required him to furnish $300 bail for court.

It is alleged that on the above date Diethrie arrested Antonio De Sallero and by threats procured from him $8 40 and let him go free. At the hearing on Saturday two officers who had seen the man with the Italian said they were positive that Diethrie was the man, but he had a mustache at that time.

The case was adjourned by the alderman to allow Diethrie to prove he did not wear a mustache at that time, and a number of witnesses were present yesterday to testify. The alderman was not satisfied, however, and held him for court.
